

Construction Ban Put On Public Buildings

Action Taken to Save Steel, Aluminum, Copper

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—The government has slapped a 60-day ban on the start of any new construction except that requiring minor quantities of steel, copper and aluminum.

The order issued yesterday by the National Production Authority (NPA) would not affect most residences. Small stores and even some amusement places—heretofore prohibited—also may go ahead.

But the "freeze", effective until Oct. 1, bans the start of new factories, office buildings, schools, hospitals and public buildings.

Builders whose projects exceed the permitted limits may apply for metal, to be delivered after Oct. 1, under NPA's allocation system, known as the Controlled Materials Plan or "CMP." But they may not get it unless NPA deems the projects essential.

NPA officials said the net effect of the new order—titled "M4-A"—will be to ease considerably the problems of small project builders.

Through NPA's authority to scan each application for metal, it will cut sharply, however, into the construction of big apartment houses, non-defense plants, hotels and similar structures.

Must Save Metals

The builders of projects using less than the specified quantities of metal may go ahead. After Oct. 1, they may certify their purchase orders for metal as being "self-authorized" under the allocation program.

However, NPA officials emphasized, these must stick strictly to the restraints on metal usage.

In the case of amusement structures—like the presently banned bowling alleys, grandstands and cocktail lounges—a go-ahead also is possible now but only if the metal limits are observed and the metal is already in the owner's possession.

Officials said the order will not delay unduly most essential projects. It probably would take until Oct. 1, in any case, to get delivery of materials on a job of any size. Also, NPA expects to act promptly on builders' applications.

Estimating that defense plants and essential civilian projects will need far more structural steel than the anticipated supply after Oct. 1, NPA said less-needed buildings may have to hold off until Jan. 1 or even next April.

Savage Fighting at Burma

Rangoon, Burma, Aug. 4 (AP)—A report from Mandalay today said savage fighting is going on near the border of Burma and Red China between Nationalist and Communist Chinese forces.

The report published in the independent Burmese newspaper, Bahosi, broke the silence on the Chinese Nationalist force that penetrated Red-ruled Yunnan province some time ago from its Burma refugee base. Bahosi said Communist columns were fighting southward in Yunnan have trapped some Nationalist units and the Nationalists are fighting savagely for a breakthrough so they can reenter Burma.

More Have Jobs

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—Employment climbed to new peak July 14 with 62,326,000 persons in civilian jobs. The previous high—62,367,000—was reached in August, 1950. In reporting this yesterday, the Census Bureau also said unemployment declined from 1,980,000 in June to 1,856,000, the lowest for July since the end of World War 2.

Paltz Man Held

Gino Catalano, 52, of Chestnut street, New Paltz, was held Friday night by state police of the Highland station at the request of New York city police department. A teletype message from New York informed state police that Catalano was wanted in New York to answer a charge of grand larceny. No further details were available from state police. Catalano was taken to the Ulster county jail to await the arrival of New York police.

East Strand Man Overcome by Gas

John Williams, 51, was revived by firemen after he was presumably overcome by gas in his apartment at 60 East Strand about 10:30 p. m. Friday, the fire department reported.

Williams was carried from the house by Fire Captain Joseph M. Hallinan and Fireman Clarence Maines. He was given oxygen treatment for about 30 minutes, after which he apparently recovered, firemen said.

Patrolmen George Dougherty and Meyer Levy, who investigated, reported Williams fell against a gas pipe, causing it to break.

Blames Football Pressure For West Point Scandal

Young Blaik Hits Manner Ousting 90 Army Cadets

Inference Is Made 100 in June Class Did Cribbing to Graduate

West Point, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP)—Bob Blaik, star quarterback on the team and son of West Point's head football coach, bitterly criticized the United States Military Academy today for the manner in which it ousted 90 cadets for "cribbing" in examinations.

Young Blaik declined to say whether he was one of the cadets involved in the biggest academic scandal of West Point's 150 years. However, he used the pronoun "we" when discussing the ousted cadets.

Surrounded by admitted members of the 90-man ousted group, Blaik told newsmen:

"We were not allowed to notify our parents all over the country in advance. First notice they got was from the newspapers and over the radio."

Coach Earl H. Blaik dodged reporters for nearly 24 hours and when finally tracked down and asked for comment said flatly: "No."

One of the 90 cadets involved, who like the others declined to reveal his name, told newsmen: "At least 200 corps cadets did the same thing."

Says Others Lied

He said the ousted cadets admitted the cheating when questioned about it. He said others equally guilty denied under oath any complicity.

One member of the angry group pointed to the speaker and said: "I'd rather have these men who told the truth lead me into battle than the others."

Still another irate cadet said that to his knowledge "over a hundred" members of the June graduating class were involved in the cheating, but escaped punishment.

One boy in the group said heatedly: "We want legal advice."

Want Honorable Discharge

Another added: "We are going to demand honorable discharges."

One of the cadets said the widespread academic cheating had been going on as long ago as 1947 and still another cadet estimated the scandal had its roots as far back as 12 years ago.

Newsmen stopped young Blaik as he was entering the gymnasium. As they talked with him briefly, a crowd of other cadets gathered and without identifying one another said most of them were among the 90 cadets involved.

When Blaik was called away to the telephone, the other cadets conversed at some length with newsmen.

To Extend Rotation

Tokyo, Aug. 4 (AP)—The army's policy of rotating its personnel in Korea back to the United States will be extended Sept. 1 to include all soldiers in the Far East command, Brig. Gen. Bryan L. Milburn, assistant chief of staff, announced today. Soldiers in Korea have been eligible for rotation after serving a minimum of six months in close combat. Milburn said enlisted personnel in Korea who met minimum requirements before June 1 will be returned home, if possible, prior to Sept. 1.

Officers in this latter group, he added, will be rotated as soon as possible but not necessarily before the expanded program becomes effective.

O'Dwyer Demands Crime Committee Make Public 'Forces' Linking Him to Money

Mexico City, Aug. 4 (AP)—Ambassador William O'Dwyer demanded last night that the Senate Crime Investigating Committee expose "the forces" which linked his name to a million-dollar fund transfer.

The committee issued a statement in Washington earlier yesterday saying it was satisfied with a State Department explanation that the transfer was a routine payment by Mexico to the United States on its lend lease account. The committee said it had not spread the original reports.

The reports, first published by the New York Daily News, said the committee was investigating a million-dollar letter of credit reportedly transferred from Mexico

Army Chief of Staff Says Practice Cuts Time of Study

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—The dismissal of 90 West Point cadets for cheating in exams brought demands today for congressional investigation of the military academy—including its football activities.

Senator Young (R-N. D.) urged Congress to probe the possibility that over-emphasis on football led to the breakdown in the academy's famed honor system.

Gen. J. Lawton Collins, army chief of staff, reportedly blamed such over-emphasis yesterday in telling lawmakers of the mass dismissals, largest in the academy's 149-year history. Senators said he hinted that a majority of the academy's game-winning football players cheated on exams because football practice cut down their opportunities to study.

Will Play Football

West Point officials said the academy football team will play its fall schedule—win or lose.

"An investigation is in order and it should also cover too much laxity in conducting examinations," Young told a reporter. Young is a member of the official congressional board of visitors which inspects the academy every year.

Rep. Brooks (D-La.), ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee, said "the academy should be cleaned from top to bottom of all moral dishonesty. If any faculty members are involved, they should be fired."

However, army sources said no faculty members at West Point were involved.

Wants Full Report

Rep. Doyle (D-Calif.), a member of the Congressional Board of West Point Visitors said he would ask that the board investigate or at least be given a full report.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.), acting as chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he was particularly saddened by the affair because the cadets are among the cream of the nation's young men and the "nation's hope is for its fine young men."

No congressman publicly criticized the mass dismissal as too severe.

The dismissed cadets were accused of either giving or accepting outside help to pass classroom tests during the last few years.

Senators said they were told 80 of the cadets had admitted breaking the honor code and that the others would face a court martial or special trial to determine the guilt.

General Discharge

The army defined this as "discharge under honorable conditions, service satisfactory, soldier not qualifying for honorable discharge."

An army spokesman said it was the honor system itself which exposed the cheaters. The action was initiated about six months ago by the committee after a tip from an unidentified cadet.

The committee's findings were passed on to a special board appointed by Collins. It was composed of Judge Learned Hand, recently retired from the U. S. Court of Appeals in New York; L. Gen. Troy H. Middleton, now president of Louisiana State University; and Maj. Gen. Robert M. Danford, retired, a former president of the West Point Graduates Association.

Not Involved

Kingstonians rejoiced today in the news that Cadet John Edward "Big Ed" Weaver was not involved in the cribbing scandal which resulted in the dismissal of 90 West Point cadets. The city's most famous athlete of the day is shown in his Army varsity football regalia. "Big Ed" is one of the few Army gridders not affected by the scandal and will see heavy duty during the cadets' rugged 1951 football schedule.

Father Receives Word Son Is in Clear at Academy

Prediction Is Kingston Gridders Will Have Brilliant Season This Year

John L. Weaver, of 112 Foxhall avenue, father of Cadet John Edward Weaver of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, told The Freeman this morning that his son was not among the 90 cadets dismissed from the Academy yesterday for cheating in exams.

"Ed called from the Point this morning," Weaver said, "and told us that he is in the clear."

Mr. Weaver would not elaborate further on the statement made by his famous athlete son, a former All-DUSO three-sport star at Kingston High and first string left end on Army's 1950 offensive football platoon.

Honored by Press

Big Ed was also the star of the Army basketball team and finished the 1950-51 season only one point short of the all-time Army scoring record. Weaver finished the 1950 football campaign in a blaze of glory, gained honorable mention on the Associated Press All-America and football experts generally predicted he would be one of the nation's greatest college ends in 1951.

The senior Weaver's announcement ended wide speculation among Kingston and Hudson valley sports fans about Big Ed's status in the current mess at the military academy.

A report that Big Ed was the only varsity player on the offensive platoon not involved in the scandal could not be confirmed.

The shocking news broke late yesterday when 90 unidentified cadets were expelled for "cribbing" and Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, said no names would be announced.

Buffer Zone Is Sought By Allies Between the Yalu and Battle Line

Reds Refuse To Budge On Line at 38th

Today's Talks Ended in Kaesong With an Official Report of 'No Progress'

Red Radio Stations Insist UN Wants to 'Rob' North Korea

UN Advance Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 4 (AP)—Red negotiators today said they wouldn't budge an inch on their demands that a cease-fire buffer zone be drawn along the 38th Parallel in Korea.

In Tokyo, the civil information and education division of allied headquarters said the United Nations wanted the buffer zone somewhere between the Yalu river and the Manchurian border and the present battle lines.

There was no immediate confirmation of the statement here or in Tokyo.

In fact, an allied spokesman told reporters trying to draw him on the subject—before the statement was issued—"I believe it would be seriously in error and the wildest sort of speculation if you attempt to draw this line in the vast area between the present (battle) lines and the Yalu river."

The spokesman, Air Force Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls, apparently was not aware of the statement being issued in Tokyo.

Concerning a similar report he said he was afraid it "has been garbled somewhere along the line... it does not ring true to me."

He added: "I am not in a position to define specifically any United Nations command positions. I will point out to you (newsmen) that it has been said several times that the United Nations was seeking a militarily realistic line."

Today's talks in Kaesong ended with an official report of "no progress." Nuckolls said the truce teams were as far apart on the buffer zone problem as they were when they first began discussing it. That was July 27.

20th Session

The 20th session is scheduled tomorrow at 11 a. m. (8 p. m. Saturday, EST).

The Tokyo statement said "the military demarcation line upon which we must reach agreement... lies somewhere between the air and sea front of the Yalu and the ground front in the area of Kaesong, Pyongyang and the Yangjin river."

"The fact that the war began on the 38th Parallel provides no logic whatsoever... From a military standpoint the 38th Parallel is as irrelevant as the equator."

Before that statement was released it had been generally understood here that the UN wanted the buffer zone to follow the present battle lines.

Scientist Takes Snake Venom Dose

Dr. Soule Was Charged With Mishandling University Funds

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 4 (AP)—A world famous scientist, threatened with prosecution for mishandling University of Michigan funds, killed himself with a hypodermic dose of snake venom and morphine late yesterday.

Three hours before his suicide, Dr. Soule, a bacteriologist, was told by university regents he had been fired and would be prosecuted.

The Washtenaw county prosecutor's office called a conference today to decide whether to go on with an inquiry into the way the scientist handled department of bacteriology funds. Dr. Soule, 54, had been chairman of the department since 1935.

The regents told Dr. Soule at 3 p. m. they would not accept his resignation submitted last July 13. The prosecutor's office was asked at 4:30 p. m. to begin an investigation.

About 6 p. m. Dr. Soule's wife, Alma, found him dying in the basement of their home. He had given himself the fatal injection.

On the record, apparently only $487.05 was involved. The regents said Dr. Soule had made full restitution. They declined to say how the funds were mishandled or how the incident came to light.

Plunges to Death

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—Theodore Goldstein, 67-year-old bachelor, plunged to his death early today from his sixth-story apartment in Elmhurst, Queens, police said. Police said Goldstein shared the apartment (at 85-05 Elmhurst avenue) with his widowed sister, Mrs. Edith Wolf. Mrs. Wolf said Goldstein had been despondent and in ill health lately.

Zone of Balance

"It is here in the zone between the present ground front and the air and sea fronts on and adjacent to the northern boundaries of Korea that the military situation is stabilized—that the military forces are in balance."

"The military demarcation line upon which we must reach agreement, therefore, lies somewhere between the air and sea front on the Yalu and the ground front in the area of Kaesong, Pyongyang and the Yangjin river."

Red delegates at the cease-fire talks in Kaesong have stood firm for the 38th Parallel as the truce line.

The release said the UN command has the upper hand in every military department in Korea but still is willing to sacrifice some "advantages in the interests of peace."

An hour after the section issued its statement on Russia it tried to withhold publication. It said the release was intended as "background information" for editors and was not intended to be printed.

By then the statement had been broadcast on radio overseas. It was in print at least in the United States. The withholding request was cancelled.

Press Release Called First Official Note About Going North of Fighting Area

Bleeding China

Soviet Blamed for Its Weakening of China in Korean War

Tokyo, Aug. 4 (AP)—A supreme allied command press release today said the United Nations want a Korean buffer zone somewhere between the Yalu river and the present battle line.

It was the first official statement that the UN allies wanted the buffer line north of the present fighting line.

Only shortly before, air force Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls told correspondents at the UN advance headquarters in Korea, in reply to a question that the allies reportedly were asking a cease-fire line north of present battle lines.

"I believe it would be seriously in error and the wildest sort of speculation if you attempt to draw this line in the vast area between the present battle line and the Yalu river."

The statement was in a release issued by the civil information and education section of allied general headquarters under the title "Background Material on the Establishment of a Demilitarized Zone."

Presumably the release had full approval prior to its release but there was no immediate confirmation of that fact by general headquarters.

The section earlier issued a strongly-worded statement which accused Russia of starting the Korean war and of trying to weaken Red China by bleeding her on the battlefield.

The release on the buffer zone said that if an armistice had been proposed last year when allied troops were driven back to the Nakdong river in South Korea, "the military demarcation line might have been near the Nakdong river."

Since then, the release added, the U. S. Eighth Army has driven the Reds back to a line running from Kaesong on the west, Pyongyang in the center and the Yangjin river in the east. In addition, UN air and naval units have "gained and continued to maintain control up to the line of the Yalu and Tumen rivers."

Zone of Balance

"It is here in the zone between the present ground front and the air and sea fronts on and adjacent to the northern boundaries of Korea that the military situation is stabilized—that the military forces are in balance."

The committee issued a statement in Washington earlier yesterday saying it was satisfied with a State Department explanation that the transfer was a routine payment by Mexico to the United States on its lend-lease account. The committee said it had not spread the original reports.

The reports, first published by the New York Daily News, said the committee was investigating a million-dollar letter of credit "reportedly transferred from Mexico to a Manhattan bank for the account of Ambassador O'Dwyer," shortly before the committee opened televised hearings in New York last March.

The State Department said what happened was that the Mexican government made out a million-dollar bank draft to O'Dwyer, in his capacity as American ambassador, for a payment on its lend-lease account.

The department said O'Dwyer asked that the draft be changed into its equivalent in pesos to use for American diplomatic expenses in Mexico. The money was then deposited to the credit of the U. S. government in the Mexico City branch of the National City Bank of New York.

The transaction was said to be in accord with "accepted practice in such cases."

Weaver finished the 1950 football campaign in a blaze of glory, gained honorable mention on the Associated Press All-America and football experts generally predicted he would be one of the nation's greatest college ends in 1951.

The senior Weaver's announcement ended wide speculation among Kingston and Hudson valley sports fans about Big Ed's status in the current mess at the military academy.

A report that Big Ed was the only varsity player on the offensive platoon not involved in the scandal could not be confirmed.

The shocking news broke late yesterday when 90 unidentified cadets were expelled for "cribbing" and Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, said no names would be announced.

Red Radio Stations Insist UN Wants to 'Rob' North Korea

UN Advance Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 4 (AP)—Red negotiators today said they wouldn't budge an inch on their demands that a cease-fire buffer zone be drawn along the 38th Parallel in Korea.

In Tokyo, the civil information and education division of allied headquarters said the United Nations wanted the buffer zone somewhere between the Yalu river and the Manchurian border and the present battle lines.

There was no immediate confirmation of the statement here or in Tokyo.

In fact, an allied spokesman told reporters trying to draw him out on the subject—before the statement was issued—"I believe it would be seriously in error and the wildest sort of speculation if you attempt to draw this line in the vast area between the present (battle) lines and the Yalu river."

The spokesman, Air Force Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, apparently was not aware of the statement being issued in Tokyo.

Concerning a similar report he said he was afraid it "has been garbled somewhere along the line."

"It does not ring true to me," he added. "I am not in a position to define specifically any United Nations command positions. I will point out to you (newsmen) that it has been said several times that the United Nations was seeking a militarily realistic line."

Today's talks in Kaesong ended with an official report of "no progress." Nuckols said the truce teams were as far apart on the buffer zone problem as they were when they first began discussing it. That was July 27.

20th Session

The 20th session is scheduled tomorrow at 11 a. m. (8 p. m. Saturday, EST).

The Tokyo statement said "the military demarcation line upon which we must reach agreement...lies somewhere between the air and sea front of the Yalu and the ground front in the area of Kaesong, Pyongyang and the Yalu river."

"The fact that the war began on the 38th Parallel provides no logic whatsoever. ... From a military standpoint the 38th Parallel is as irrelevant as the equator."

Before that statement was released it had been generally understood here that the UN wanted the buffer zone to follow the present battle lines.

Scientist Takes Snake Venom Dose

Dr. Soule Was Charged With Mishandling University Funds

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 4 (AP)—A world famous scientist, threatened with prosecution for mishandling University of Michigan funds, killed himself with a hypodermic dose of snake venom and morphine late yesterday.

Three hours before his suicide, scholar, handsome Dr. Malcolm H. Soule, a bacteriologist, was told by university regents he had been fired and would be prosecuted.

The Washtenaw county prosecutor's office called a conference today to decide whether to go on with an inquiry into the way the scientist handled department of bacteriology funds. Dr. Soule, 54, had been chairman of the department since 1935.

The regents told Dr. Soule at 3 p. m. they would not accept his resignation submitted last July 13. The prosecutor's office was asked at 4:30 p. m. to begin an investigation.

About 6 p. m. Dr. Soule's wife, Alma, found him dying in the basement of their home. He had given himself the fatal injection.

On the record, apparently only $487.05 was involved.

The regents said Dr. Soule had misled to say how the funds were mishandled or how the incident came to light.

Dr. Soule apparently had picked (Continued on Page 5, Col. 5)

Plunges to Death

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—Theodore Goldstein, 67-year-old bachelor, plunged to his death early today from his sixth-story apartment in Elmhurst, Queens, police said. Police said Goldstein shared the apartment (at 85-05 Elmhurst avenue) with his widowed sister, Mrs. Edith Wolf. Mrs. Wolf said Goldstein had been despondent and in ill health lately.

Russia Now Accused of Scheming

Press Release Called First Official Note About Going North of Fighting Area

Bleeding China

Soviet Blamed for Its Weakening of China in Korean War

Tokyo, Aug. 4 (AP)—A supreme allied command press release today said the United Nations wants a Korean buffer zone somewhere between the Yalu river and the present battle line.

It was the first official statement that the UN allies wanted the buffer line north of the present fighting line.

Only shortly before, air force Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols told correspondents at the UN advance headquarters in Korea, in reply to a question that the allies reportedly were asking a cease-fire line north of present battle lines:

"I believe it would be seriously in error and the wildest sort of speculation if you attempt to draw this line in the vast area between the present battle line and the Yalu river."

The statement was in a release issued by the civil information and education section of allied general headquarters under the title "Background Material on the Establishment of a Demilitarized Zone."

No Confirmation
Presumably the release had full approval prior to its release but there was no immediate confirmation of that fact by general headquarters.

The section earlier issued a strongly-worded statement which accused Russia of starting the Korean war and of trying to weaken Red China by bleeding her on the battlefield.

The release on the buffer zone said that if an armistice had been proposed last year when allied troops were driven back to the Nakdong river in South Korea, "the military demarcation line might have been near the Nakdong river."

Since then, the release added, the U. S. Eighth Army has driven the Reds back to a line running from Kaesong on the west, Pyongyang in the center and the Yalu river in the east. In addition, UN air and naval units have "gained and continued to maintain control up to the line of the Yalu and Tumen rivers."

Zone of Balance
"It is here in the zone between the present ground front and the air and sea fronts on and adjacent to the northern boundaries of Korea that the military situation is stabilized — that the military forces are in balance."

"The military demarcation line upon which we must reach agreement, therefore, lies somewhere between the air and sea front on the Yalu and the ground front in the area of Kaesong, Pyongyang and the Yalu river."

The fact that the war began on the 38th Parallel provides no logic whatsoever. ... from a military standpoint the 38th Parallel is as irrelevant as the equator."

Red delegates at the cease-fire talks in Kaesong have stood firm for the 38th Parallel as the truce line.

The release said the UN command has the upper hand in every military department in Korea but still is willing to sacrifice some "advantages in the interests of peace."

An hour after the section issued its statement on Russia it tried to withhold publication. It said the release was intended as "background information" for editors and was not intended to be printed.

By then the statement had been broadcast on radio overseas. It was in print at least in the United States. The withhold request was cancelled.

Hits Communism

Ford and Chrysler Ask Price Boost

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—Permitting to boost automobile prices up to more than 10 per cent was requested yesterday by Ford and Chrysler.

The two big manufacturers filed formal applications for the increases with the Office of Price Stabilization, (OPS) under the new controls law. OPS said it is taking the applications "under study."

Officials said they could not say how soon action might be expected.

Ford Motor Co. requested a 9.34 per cent increase on Fords, 4.85 per cent on the Mercury, 9.4 per cent on the Lincoln and 10.34 per cent on the Lincoln Cosmopolitan. The Chrysler Corp. proposed a 9.67 per cent increase on Plymouths, 9.18 per cent on Chryslers, 9.52 per cent on Dodges and 9.74 per cent on De Sotos.

Chrysler did not ask for a price change on a new line of 11 models it brought out last June. OPS fixed a ceiling price on these June 25.

Price Regulation Date On Vegetables Delayed

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) has put off for 15 days the effective date of its price regulation on canned vegetables, pending possible revision of the order.

OPS said yesterday the regulation, which now applies only to canned green peas but will cover other vegetables later, will become effective Aug. 20. The original date was Aug. 5.

The delay, OPS officials said, stems from industry protests indicating that there probably should be a restudy of the method of figuring canners' costs.

Divorce Suspended

Cuernavaca, Mexico, Aug. 4 (AP)—Barbara Hutton's Mexican divorce has been suspended temporarily by a federal judge in a technicality. District Judge Alfredo Guillen ordered a hearing for Thursday when he will decide whether to continue the suspension. If it is prolonged, a final hearing will be held Aug. 27 to decide whether to nullify the divorce a state judge granted here three weeks ago, or let it stand. The dime store heiress' fourth husband, Prince Igor Troubetzkoy, is fighting the divorce on the ground it was illegally obtained.

Wants Brother Back

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—The sister of Noel H. Field, former State Department employee who disappeared two years ago behind the Iron Curtain, says her brother should be found and brought back to defend himself against charges of Communist ties. The sister, Dr. Elsie H. Field of Urbana, Ill., called at the Associated Press here yesterday. She carried a folder laden with government correspondence in behalf of her brother.

Protest Rejected

Paris, Aug. 4 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's protest against France's putting the coal-rich Saar area under German control was rejected yesterday by the Big Three western powers. They advised him to quit trying to make a political football out of the disputed territory.

sal. Friday there will be a barbecue at the home of Mrs. Smead Royal, 237 East Strand, beginning at 12 noon. This evening a dime social will be held at the church.

Mt. Marion Parish—The service at the High Woods Reformed Church will be at 9:45 a. m. The sermon, Faith gives Strength, Romans 4, 20-25. Women of a tri-county area, including Ulster, are invited to join a new Ladies' Auxiliary being formed by Ul-Gre-Del Post, 7668, the next meeting of which is scheduled for Monday, Aug. 13, at the fire hall in Fleischmanns.

Those who sign up within the next four months will be eligible for charter membership in the organization for women from Ulster, Greene and Delaware counties. It has been announced.

Eligible are wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of men who have served on foreign soil or in hostile waters in the military forces of the United States during a period of hostilities. Also eligible are female members of the armed forces of the United States who have had foreign service in time of war, for which a campaign badge has been authorized.

Folk Hero Cantata To Be Given at 11th Catskill Festival

Stories and legends dealing with Boney Quillan, Catskill folk hero, have formed the basis for a cantata to be performed by the Camp Woodland Chorus at the 11th annual folk festival of the Catskills Saturday night, Aug. 11. The festival, open to the public, will be held in the American Legion hall, Chichester.

The cantata was written by Norbert Haufrecht, New York composer whose work has been performed by symphonies throughout the country, and a former member of Camp Woodland's staff. It will be directed by Arthur Jones, camp music director.

Boney Quillan material was collected by campers and counselors during trips along the upper Delaware River from old-time raftsmen and lumbermen. The cantata, which deals with a real person whose fantastic and humorous exploits are still told in the western Catskills, was composed at the camp this summer.

In addition to Boney Quillan, the festival will, as in past years, feature fiddlers, jig dancers, and ballad singers hailing from the entire Catskill region. Their songs and dances have been handed down from generation to generation, some crossing the Atlantic, others derived from the experience of lumbermen, laborers, and farmers of the past century. The evening will end with the audience participating in square dances.

Phoenicia Is Scene Of Catskill Museum; Will Open in August

It's been just about 10 years since a Samsonville blacksmith, George Van Kleek by name, showed a group of vacationing city children at Camp Woodland a bark peeling spud, and inadvertently began the Catskill Folk Museum, which will open its doors in Phoenicia Saturday, Aug. 11 at 10:30 a. m.

At first campers hunted out old implements on trips through the region. In many Catskill villages residents joined the search, men like Orson Slack, an old craftsman on the East Branch of the Delaware, who gathered items from his neighbors in the Arena area. "Exhibits will be arranged in such a way that they tell the story of how people worked and lived," according to Norman Stude, director of Camp Woodland. "A spinner will actually operate a spinning wheel, and an old-time scoop maker will fashion scoops and bowls out of rough pieces of wood. We will emphasize the industries that flourished in this area, such as tanning, quarrying, hoopmaking, and rafting."

At the museum's opening, weather permitting, there will be square dancing and ballad singing on the museum lawn. Admission will be free, and the museum will be available to the public each Saturday in August from 10 a. m. until 5 p. m. It will be situated in Phoenicia on Main street next to St. Francis De Sales Church. The property was loaned for the summer by Sam Davis of Phoenicia.

Catskill residents who have contributed to the museum include George Van Kleek, Samsonville; William Frank and Orson Slack, Arena; Ira Weaver, Union Grove; Harry Robinson, Grahamsville; Martin Hamilton, Red Hill; Jerry Van Kleek, Tabasco; Grant Brooks, Sundown; Ernest Smith, Clinton Ferry and Lew Hallenbeck, Phoenicia.

Marriage Announced—Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Eleanor Gaddis of Ruby to Arthur Gilbert of Cottledill Sunday, July 29, at Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frank Lawrence Gollnick. Attendees were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Gaddis.

Program Announced For Final Berkshire Festival Weekend

Lenox, Mass., Aug. 4—The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood will open next Thursday night (Aug. 9), with Beethoven's Missa Solemnis, played in memory of Serge Koussevitzky. Leonard Bernstein will conduct. Solo selections will be sung by Adele Addison, soprano; Eunice Alberts, contralto; David Lloyd, tenor, and James Pease, bass.

On Saturday Mr. Munch will lead the symphony in Beethoven's First Symphony, Honnegger's Fifth, and Tchaikovsky's Sixth Pathétique. The festival will end Sunday afternoon with an all-Brahms program, including Variations on a Theme by Haydn, and the second and fourth symphonies.

At Tanglewood on Parade Friday, Aug. 10, given for the benefit of the school, Mr. Munch and Mr. Bernstein will conduct the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt will give a 10-minute address following intermission, and Mr. Bernstein will play the piano solo in George Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue. Another highlight will be a performance of Menotti's Amelia Goes to the Ball at 4:30 p. m., for reserved seat and box ticket holders.

Herzog's to Hold Outing Tomorrow

Approximately 100 persons are expected to attend the annual all-day outing tomorrow given by Herzog's for their employees, their friends, and families. The affair will be at Tilton Lake, near Wallkill.

M. H. Herzog will represent the organization which includes the Herzog Wall street store, the appliance store on North Front street, Herzog Supply Company, and the outside sales staff.

Informal games will follow a ham and baked bean supper. Heading arrangements are William Lafrentz, Cleon Robinson, William Hornbeck and Henry France.

Marriage Announced

Announcement has been made of the marriage August 1 of Mrs. Estella Barron and LeRoy Kelly, both of this city. The Rev. Marshall Smith, 76 Liberty street, officiated. Witnesses for the couple were Mrs. Pearl Lockett and Lewis Roseburg, also of this city.

FATHER'S PLACE AT WEDDING

A worried Aunt writes: "My niece who is very close to us is getting married. Her own parents are divorced and she has asked my husband to give her away. She is under the impression that as her mother is not friendly in any way with her father it would be unsuitable to have him perform this office. I don't know what effect it will have on her father or his relatives but I'm afraid it will come as a bombshell and I hate to have my husband the direct target. Will you advise what is right?"

Taking it for granted that she loves her own father and her only objection is his feeling toward her mother, her father should give her away. To choose her Uncle is to repudiate her father. The rules for this situation are definitely established. Correctly, her father will go for her the morning of the wedding, walk up the aisle with her, give her away, join members of his family in one of the pews. He will not appear at the reception.

Sunback Dresses Not for Office—Dear Mrs. Post: Please advise us if it is right or wrong to wear sun-back dresses to business offices? I mean, of course, to sit in the office on a hot day without the jacket. Our boss will abide by your answer. Definitely not—sun-back dresses do not belong in an office.

Announcing Engagement at Party—Dear Mrs. Post: How can an engagement be announced at a large tea and cocktail party at which the guests arrive in groups and congregate in groups? It would be impossible to attract the attention of all. Is there an answer?

Answer: When everybody has arrived, someone claps for attention and then after passing filled glasses to everyone present, makes the announcement by proposing a toast.

Would you like to have a list of wedding expenses and who is responsible for paying them? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-4 includes such a list. Frank, Ava in Mexico

Acapulco, Mexico, Aug. 4 (AP)—Frank Sinatra and Ava Gardner took in Acapulco night spots last night, their first in the tropical Pacific coast resort. The vacationing couple put in an early appearance at La Perla, perched on the cliff overlooking the sea at the Hotel Mirador. They went on to others with Hedy Lamarr and her recently acquired husband, Teddy Strauffer, who runs La Perla. Sinatra said his estranged wife, Nancy, is getting a California divorce, and then he and Ava will marry.

Jacoby on Canasta

Solving Wild Card Problems

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
Questions have been piling up for some time, now, so we'd better clear up a few of them. The new rules about the number of wild cards in a canasta seem to puzzle quite a good many of players. Perhaps my answers will straighten them out.

Q—Are you ever allowed to have more than three wild cards in a canasta?
A—Never. Three wild cards is the limit.

Q—My side had two canastas but no other melds. I was down to one card, and drew a wild card from the stock. Can I add it to one of my canastas and meld out? Each canasta had three wild cards in it already.

A—You are not allowed to add the wild card to either canasta—as long as each canasta already contained three wild cards. You must simply keep on playing.

Q—Does a player have the right to open a closed canasta of either side to determine the number of wild cards in it and whether they are deuces or jokers?

A—You may inspect a canasta only at three times. First, you may open it up at the time it is completed. For example, suppose your partner makes the canasta. You may open it up during the turn on which he completes it, and even during the next player's turn. Once the next player has discarded, it is too late to open up the canasta and inspect it.

Second, you may open up a closed canasta if somebody tries to add a wild card to it. The purpose of the inspection is to make sure that it does not already contain the limit of three wild cards. Third, you may open a closed canasta at the end of a hand—to count it up for the score.

However, you never open a closed canasta just to see whether the wild cards in it are deuces or jokers.

Q—My side needed 120 points for the initial meld. I put down three deuces and six kings. My opponents objected to the nine-card canasta? Was it a legal meld?

A—Yes. There is no objection to a nine-card canasta, as long as it contains no more than three wild cards. It's an unusual play, but it's quite legal.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta. He reprints, however, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Ford and Chrysler Ask Price Boost

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—Permission to boost automobile prices up to more than 10 per cent was requested yesterday by Ford and Chrysler.

The two big manufacturers filed formal applications for the increases with the Office of Price Stabilization, (OPS) under the new controls law. OPS said it is taking the applications "under study."

Officials said they could not say how soon action might be expected. Ford Motor Co. requested a 9.34 per cent increase on Fords, 4.85 per cent on the Mercury, 9.4 per cent on the Lincoln and 10.34 per cent on the Lincoln Cosmopolitan.

The Chrysler Corp. proposed a 9.67 per cent increase on Plymouths, 9.18 per cent on Chryslers, 9.52 per cent on Dodges and 9.74 per cent on De Sotos.

Chrysler did not ask for a price change on a new line of 11 models it brought out last June. OPS fixed a ceiling price on these June 25.

Price Regulation Date On Vegetables Delayed

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—The Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) has put off for 15 days the effective date of its price regulation on canned vegetables, pending possible revision of the order.

OPS said yesterday the regulation, which now applies only to canned green peas but will cover other vegetables later, will become effective Aug. 20. The original date was Aug. 5.

The delay, OPS officials said, stems from industry protests indicating that there probably should be a restudy of the method of figuring canners' costs.

Divorce Suspended

Cuernavaca, Mexico, Aug. 4 (AP)—Bert Hutton's Mexican divorce has been suspended temporarily by a federal judge in a test of its legality. District Judge Alfredo Guillen ordered a hearing for Thursday when he will decide whether to continue the suspension. If it is prolonged, a final judgment will be held Aug. 27.

The delay, OPS officials said, stems from industry protests indicating that there probably should be a restudy of the method of figuring canners' costs.

Wants Brother Back

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—The sister of Noel H. Field, former State Department employee who disappeared two years ago behind the Iron Curtain, says her brother should be found and brought back to defend himself against charges of Communist ties. The sister, Dr. Elsie H. Field of Urbana, Ill., called at the Associated Press here yesterday. She carried a folder laden with government correspondence in behalf of her brother.

Paris, Aug. 4 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's protest against France's cutting the coal-rich Saar away from West Germany was rejected yesterday by the Big Three western powers. They advised him to quit trying to make a political football out of the disputed territory.

sal. Friday there will be a barbeque at the home of Mrs. Smead Royal, 237 East Strand, beginning at 12 noon. This evening a dime social will be held at the church.

Mt. Marion Parish—The service at the High Woods Reformed Church will be at 9:45 a. m. The sermon, Faith gives Strength, Romans 4, 20-25. The meeting of the High Woods Ladies' Society will be held on Wednesday in the schoolhouse. The Blue Stone Society meets on Thursday in the parish hall. Folk Hero Cantata To Be Given at 11th Catskill Festival

Stories and legends dealing with Boney Quillan, Catskill folk hero, have formed the basis for a cantata to be performed by the Camp Woodland Chorus at the 11th annual folk festival of the Catskills Saturday night, Aug. 11. The festival, open to the public, will be held in the American Legion hall, Chichester.

The cantata was written by Norbert Haufrecht, New York composer whose work has been performed by symphonies throughout the country, and a former member of Camp Woodland's staff. It will be directed by Arthur Jones, camp music director.

Boney Quillan material was collected by campers and counselors during trips along the upper Delaware River from old-time raftsmen and lumbermen. The cantata, which deals with a real person whose fantastic and humorous exploits are still told in the western Catskills, was composed at the camp this summer.

In addition to Boney Quillan, the festival will, as in past years, feature fiddlers, folk dancers, and ballad singing, including the entire Catskill region. Their songs and dances have been handed down from generation to generation, some crossing the Atlantic, others derived from the experience of lumbermen, laborers, and farmers of the past century. The evening will end with the audience participating in square dances.

Phoenicia Is Scene Of Catskill Museum; Will Open in August

It's been just about 10 years since a Samsonville blacksmith, George Van Kleeck, by showing a group of vacationing children at Camp Woodland a bark peeling spud, and inadvertently began the Catskill Folk Museum, which will open its doors in Phoenicia Saturday, Aug. 11 at 10:30 a. m.

At first campers hunted out old implements on trips through the region. In many Catskill villages residents joined the search, men like Orson Slack, an old raftsmen on the East Branch of the Delaware, gathered items from his neighbors in the area.

"Exhibits will be arranged in such a way that they tell the story of how people worked and lived," according to Norman Studer, director of Camp Woodland. "A spinner will actually operate a spinning wheel and an old-time scoop maker will fashion scoops and bowls out of rough pieces of wood. We will emphasize the industries that flourished in this area, such as tanning, quarrying, hoopmaking, and rafting."

At the museum's opening, weather permitting, there will be square dancing and ballad singing on the museum lawn. Admission will be free, and the museum will be available to the public each Saturday in August from 10 a. m. until 5 p. m. It will be situated in Phoenicia on Main street near to St. Francis De Sales Church. The property was loaned for the summer by Sam Davis of Phoenicia.

Catskill residents who have contributed or loaned to the museum include George Van Kleeck, Sam Decker, William Decker and Orson Slack, Arena; Ira Weaver, Union Grove; Harry Robinson, Gramsville; Martin Hamilton, Red Hill; Jerry Van Kleeck, Tascas; Grant Brooks, Soudown; Ernest Smith, Clinton Ferry and Lew Hallenbeck, Phoenicia.

Program Announced For Final Berkshire Festival Weekend

Lenox, Mass., Aug. 4—The final weekend of the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood will open next Thursday night (Aug. 9), with Beethoven's Missa Solemnis, played in memory of Serge Koussevitzky. Leonard Bernstein will conduct. Solo selections will be sung by Adele Addison, soprano; Eunice Alberts, contralto; David Lloyd, tenor, and James Pease, bass.

On Saturday Mr. Munch will lead the symphony in Beethoven's First Symphony, Honegger's Fifth, and Tchaikovsky's Sixth Pathétique. The festival will end Sunday afternoon with an all-Brahms program, including Variations on a Theme by Haydn, and the second and fourth symphonies.

At Tanglewood on Parade Friday, Aug. 10, given for the benefit of the school, Mr. Munch and Mr. Bernstein will conduct the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt will give a 10-minute address following the mission, and Mr. Bernstein will play the piano solo in George Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue. Another highlight will be a performance of Menotti's Amelia Goes to the Ball at 4:30 p. m., for reserved seat and box ticket holders.

Herzog's to Hold Outing Tomorrow

Approximately 100 persons are expected to attend the annual all-day outing tomorrow given by Herzog's for their employees, their friends, and families. The affair will be at Tillson Lake, near Wallkill.

M. H. Herzog will represent the organization which includes the Herzog Wall street store, the appliance store on North Front street, Herzog Supply Company, and the outside sales staff.

Informal games will follow a ham and baked bean supper. Headed arrangements are William Laurentz, Cleon Robinson, William Hornbeck and Henry France.

Marriage Announced

Announcement has been made of the marriage August 1 of Mrs. Estella Barron and LeRoy Kelly, both of this city. The Rev. Marshall Smith, 76 Liberty street, officiated. Witnesses for the couple were Mrs. Pearl Lockett and Lewis Roseburg, also of this city.

Personal Notes

Mrs. Margaret Brainerd and daughter Dorothy of 81 Clinton avenue entertained Mr. and Mrs. Hyatt Myers, and son Robert of Minneapolis, Minn., this week. The Myers left Kingston Thursday.

Miss Ruth J. Lawrence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Lawrence of Stone Ridge has been named to the spring dean's list at the Syracuse University School of Nursing. Nomination to this list requires at least a B average. Miss Lawrence is a graduate of Kingston High School.

FATHER'S PLACE AT WEDDING

A worried Aunt writes: "My niece who is very close to us is getting married. Her own parents are divorced and she has asked my husband to give her away. She is under the impression that as her mother is not friendly in any way with her father it would be unsuitable to have him perform this office. I don't know what effect it will have on her father or his relatives but I'm afraid it will come as a bombshell and I hate to have my husband the direct target. Will you advise what is right?"

Taking it for granted that she loves her own father and her only objection is his feeling toward her mother, her father should give her away. To choose her Uncle is to repudiate her father. The rules of this situation are definitely established. Correctly, her father will go for her the morning of the wedding, walk up the aisle with her, give her away, join members of his family in one of the pews. He will not appear at the reception.

Dear Mrs. Post: Please advise us if it is right or wrong to wear sun-bath dresses to business offices? I mean, of course, to sit in the office on a hot day without the jacket. Our boss will abide by your answer. Definitely not—sun-bath dresses do not belong in an office.

Announcing Engagement at Party Dear Mrs. Post: How can an engagement be announced at a large tea and then after passing filled with the guests arrive in groups and congregate in groups? It would be impossible to attract the attention of all. Is there an answer?

Answer: When everybody has arrived, someone claps for attention and then after passing filled with glasses to everyone present, makes the announcement by proposing a toast.

Would you like to have a list of wedding expenses and who is responsible for paying them? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-4 includes such a list. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Jacobov on Canasta

Solving Wild Card Problems

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
Questions have been piling up for some time, now, so we'd better clear up a few of them. The new rules about the number of wild cards in a canasta seem to puzzle quite a good many of players. Perhaps my answers will straighten them out.

Q—Are you ever allowed to have more than three wild cards in a canasta?
A—Never. Three wild cards is the limit.

Q—My side had two canastas but no other melds. I was down to one card, and drew a wild card from the stock. Can I add it to one of my canastas and meld out? Each canasta had three wild cards in it already.

A—You are not allowed to add the wild card to either canasta—so long as each canasta already contained three wild cards. You must simply keep on playing.

Q—Does a player have the right to open a closed canasta of either side to determine the number of wild cards in it and whether they are deuces or jokers?

A—You may inspect a canasta only at three times. First, you may open it up at the time it is completed. For example, suppose your partner makes the canasta. You open it up during the turn on which he completes it, and even during the next player's turn. Once the next player has discarded, it is too late to open up the canasta and inspect it.

Second, you may open up a closed canasta if somebody tries to add a wild card to it. The purpose of the inspection is to make sure that it does not already contain the limit of three wild cards. Third, you may open a closed canasta at the end of a hand—to count it up for the score.

However, you never open a closed canasta just to see whether the wild cards in it are deuces or jokers.

Q—My side needed 120 points for the initial meld. I put down four deuces and six kings. My opponents objected to the nine-card canasta? Was it a legal meld?

A—Yes. There is no objection to a nine-card canasta, as long as it contains no more than three wild cards. It's an unusual play, but it's quite legal.

Mr. Jacobov is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Written for NEA Service

The national tournament in Washington is drawing to its close, and several hundred bridge stars are gnashing their teeth as they think of the bids they should have led. A few others are trying to look modest as they get the congratulations of their friends and rivals. Winners and losers alike, however, take home the memory of some of their unusual brilliancies. Some of those hands live in a bridge player's memory for years.

One hand that sticks in my mind, shown today, was dealt in the 1945 national championships. Sam Fry, Jr., held the West cards and had to find an opening lead.

A diamond was out of the question, of course, but each of the other three suits presented a possibility. Since his own hand was worthless it was vital to lead the suit that would be best for his partner's hand.

Fry knew that his partner had a good hand, otherwise he could not have doubled three no-trump. With a good hand and strong holdings in the majors, East would have taken direct action over the opening bid of three diamonds. Hence, Fry reasoned, East must have a good hand with the strength concentrated in the minor suits.

On this reasoning Fry opened the four of clubs. This was the killing lead. The defense speedily rattled off five club tricks and eventually got the ace of diamonds too, setting the contract two tricks.

If Fry had opened a spade or a heart South would have made three no-trump. For example, South wins the opening heart lead and leads diamonds until East takes the ace on the third round. East leads another heart and South wins and cashes his top spades. He then leads a heart to East, who must eventually return a club, allowing dummy to make the king of clubs and enough diamonds for the contract.

Q—The bidding has been: South West North East
1 Spade Pass 3 N.T. Pass
You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-J-10-7-3, Hearts A-10-5, Diamond 4, Clubs K-6-3. What do you do?
A—Bid five spades. You are willing to play for a slam if your partner has a fair share of aces and kings rather than a concentration of queens and jacks. He will know which kind of hand he has, and he will go to slam with one type and will pass with the other.

TODAY'S QUESTION

The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-J-7-3, Hearts K-4, Diamonds Q-5, Clubs A-10-6-3. What do you do?

Answer Monday

Pool Open Monday

The Y.M.C.A. swimming pool which was closed yesterday and will remain closed today pending repairs to a pump, will reopen Monday. Swimming classes will be on regular schedule from that day through the week.

Finds Soldier's Body

Virginia Beach, Va., Aug. 4 (AP)—A New Yorker swimming here yesterday found the body of a New York soldier who drowned Wednesday. Dr. Paul Watson of (RFD, No. 1) Newburgh, N. Y., a physician on vacation, found the body of Pfc. Rudolph N. Reznayak, of Glenfield, N. Y. Dr. Watson towed the body ashore and called authorities.

Donation for Cowboys

Kansas City, Aug. 4 (AP)—Some youngsters apparently think Kansas City still is the land of cowboys. The Red Cross flood relief fund here received $4 from Mrs. M. F. Hughes (45 Gregory Ave.), Mt. Kisco, New York, who said in a note: "My little boy of six wants me to help all the cowboys."

Poor Nailing
Causes Creaks

Many householders are surprised to learn that it is the working up and down of the nails in their sockets that causes the annoying creaking and squeaking of floors under foot. Bulging, humpy floors are also often the result of too few nails, or nails improperly placed. A simple nailing formula for laying sub-floors specifies: For four and six-inch boards, use two nails per board per joist.

Another squeak preventer is end-matched sub-flooring which provides a sound, tight base for the finished floor and is adequately strong for any form of residential construction. This type of sub-flooring also saves considerable time and material as the end-matching eliminates necessity for making joints over joists, thereby reducing sawing.

Barn Red Is a Favorite

Barn red is becoming increasingly popular as a body-color for small houses. It contrasts pleasantly with the surrounding green shrubbery and is set off effectively with white trim and shutters. The red and white combination is attractive with a gray or a brown roof.

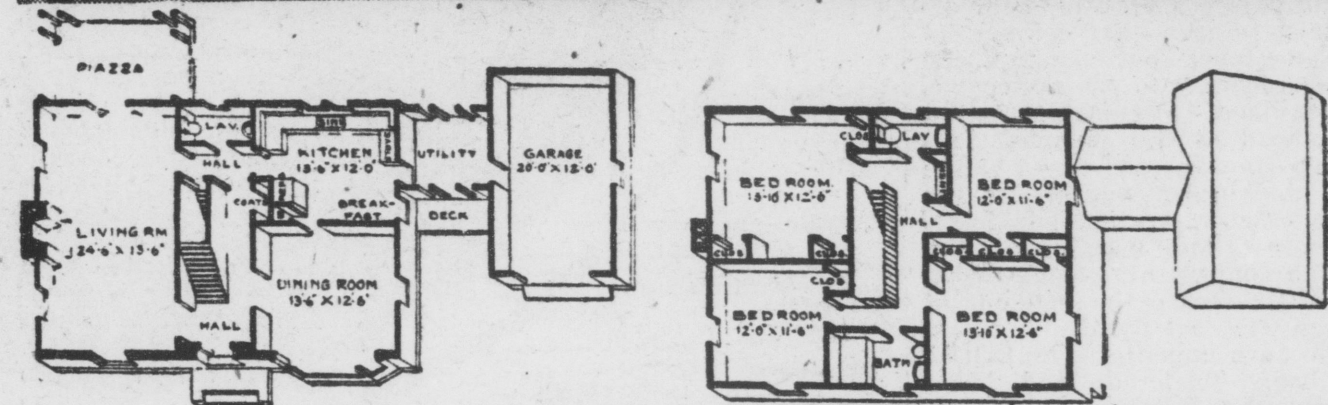

Damp Carpets

When humidity rises, wool carpets tend to increase in size. If a carpet is to be attached to the floor, it should be laid under tension, particularly if the weather is dry at the time. Otherwise it will expand when the weather becomes damp and the puckers will appear.

Weight Test for Paint

If there's any doubt about the quality of paint purchased for outdoor use, it's a good idea to weigh it. If it weighs less than 12 pounds per gallon, it probably is not a top-grade product. It should weigh closer to 15 pounds.

THE GOULD

Buyers Want Homes
Designed for Comfort

New York—The cute little house down the street may be some family's dream home, but it won't have much sales appeal for the 1951 home buyer unless it has a large living room, dinette instead of dining room, and more than one tiled bathroom.

Current home-buying demand stresses comfort, according to Herman O. Walther, former president of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers. Americans no longer consider the home just a place to sleep. It must be a machine for pleasant living, Walther says.

According to Walther, real estate appraisers find the following factors most prominent in today's home buyers' demands: 1. Larger living rooms and elimination of the dining room. 2. More than one bathroom. 3. In northern climates, a basement for storage and recreation space. 4. Long narrow kitchens with plenty of cabinet space but no pantries. 5. Insulation and automatic heating. 6. More and larger windows. 7. Attached garage on street side of house. 8. More electric outlets; no fixtures.

Color Background Given
Early American Pieces

Modern decorators usually employ colorful backgrounds for Early American furniture, using the tints and tones that will best set off the beauty of the wood utilized in its construction. The way that the colors are used, however, is simple and unpretentious. Favored paint colors for walls and woodwork are red, blue, green, gray, fawn and yellow.

Play Court Is Obtained
By Widening Driveway

Simply by widening your driveway at the side of the house or in the back yard near the garage, a play court for paddle tennis, badminton, basketball or shuffleboard can be made and marked off, the Portland Cement Association suggests.

A concrete surface requires little or no maintenance.

Rose-Beige Cottage
A charming Cape Cod cottage with a deep green roof is painted a rose-beige tone that contrasts pleasantly with the surrounding shrubbery. A gleaming white trim emphasizes the well-planned architectural detail of the trim. Shutters are the same deep green as the roof.

Difference in Enamels

Semi-gloss interior enamel is applied to surfaces on which a not-too-brilliant gloss is desired. The difference between high gloss and semi-gloss enamels lies in the relative proportions of pigment and binder. The higher the proportions of binder, the higher the gloss.

Salt Damages Concrete

Excessive use of salt to melt ice on sidewalks will damage the concrete and leather shoes. Calcium chloride mixed half and half with sand and spread sparingly is recommended instead of salt.

A Spacious,
Early-American
Type House

Rooms Eight
Bedrooms Four
Closets Ten
Cubage: House 27,000 ft.
Garage 4,200 ft.

Dimensions 37' x 28'
Although it contains seven spacious rooms, "The Gould" is economical to build because it measures but 37x28 feet in overall dimensions.

The roof overhang and the ornamental drops add to the attractiveness of the house exterior; the overhang also provides extra living space for the second floor.

Either an all wood or a combination wood and masonry finish, as in the illustration, can be used with equally attractive and effective results for "The Gould."

Somewhat protected by the second story overhang, the front doorway is itself very attractive. Glass panels in the upper section of the door add decorative appeal and at the same time serve the practical function of admitting light to the entry hall. Both the dining and the living rooms open directly off the entry hall which connects with another hallway leading to the other rooms on the first floor of this house. A large closet is conveniently located in the further section of the right wall in the hallway.

Measuring 24'x6'x13' 6", the living room is a spacious, pleasant and well planned room. Three windows provide plenty of light and ventilation for the room and also add decorative appeal. Located in the center of the left wall, the fireplace also serves both a practical and decorative purpose.

Almost directly across the entry hall from the living room is the 13' 6"x12' 6" dining room. The three windowed bay in the front wall takes top decorative honors in this room; plan your color scheme and furniture arrangement accordingly. Extra light and ventilation is provided by the window in the right wall.

To save yourself steps when you're serving meals in the dining room as well as when you're clearing the table afterwards, be sure to place your dining room table and chair set as near to the doorway from the kitchen as possible. And if you'd like extra china storage space, have cabinets built into the two left corners of the room.

Larger than many of the kitchens found in modern homes, the kitchen is planned as a work center yet contains enough area for a good-sized breakfast nook in the right front corner of the room. Working counter, cupboards and cabinets are arranged in a U along the left, back and right walls of the 13'6"x12' room. Located under the double windows in the back wall, the sink is centered in the line of working counters. The stove is placed at the right end of the array of counters. You'll find the broom closet, in the left front corner of the room, a convenient storage spot for your brooms, mops, and all types of cleaning equipment. Placed right next to the broom closet is the refrigerator which is located just a few steps from the working counters and but a short distance from the stove.

The utility room is reached through the door in the right kitchen wall. Two windows and a door in both the front and back walls of this room provide plenty of light and good ventilation as well as easy access to both the front and back yards. That last-named factor is especially appreciated on washdays.

Protection both to and from the garage is provided by the utility room. Measuring 20'x12', the garage itself receives ample light and ventilation from the window in the right wall. Large enough to hold a work bench for the home handy man, the garage has good overhead storage space.

All of the bedrooms on the second floor of "The Gould" have cross ventilation and good storage space. A central hallway connects all the bedrooms, the bathroom (placed between the two front bedrooms) and the lavatory, placed between the two rear bedrooms.

Both the right back bedroom and the left front one measures 12'x11'6", while the remaining two bedrooms each are 13'10"x12'6" in dimensions. As the left back bedroom has the most storage space (it contains three good sized closets) it is most suitable for the master bedroom. The right front bedroom has two closets and could be shared by two youngsters.

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost. For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, The Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Prized Paintings Provide
Color Scheme for Room

Prized paintings are frequently used as cues for a room's color scheme. In one room where this was successfully accomplished, walls and woodwork were painted a soft blue, which set off the beauty of several fine pieces in mahogany and maple. Other colors from the paintings which were introduced in the room's decoration were soft red and bluish-green. All of these colors were combined in the antique star-wheel quilt which was used effectively as upholstery for the sofa.

Asphalt Tile in Lighter
Colors Now Produced

For the first time, asphalt tile in a light yellow, green and a bright red are available. Until now the tiles have been available only in dark colors.

To achieve the new light colors the manufacturer has added more vinyl resins as a binder.

Baseboard Heat Gets
High Rating in Tests

In its test bungalow, the National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C., has found that a baseboard heating system produces smaller floor-to-head-level temperatures variations than any other heating system tested to date in the 4-room structure.

These and other facts about baseboard heating systems are reported by the National Bureau of Standards in a 20-page booklet entitled "Study of a Baseboard Convector System in a Test Bungalow."

The tests were aimed at observing temperature differences at several levels above the floors, at measuring room-to-room temperature differences, and at comparing the performance of two types of room temperature controls in the system. The two controls were a room thermostat and an outdoor thermostat with a modulating 3-way valve.

It was found that the outdoor thermostat and modulating control valve eliminated fluctuating room temperatures and "cold seventies."

"The baseboard heating system," says the bureau, "is well suited for application to basements houses because it is installed above the floor level and because it provides better comfort than most other systems at the floor level."

The bureau points out that this type of system can also be used in houses with basements with the boiler located below the floor.

Cheap Paintbrush Will Prove Poor Economy

It isn't economy to choose a cheap paint or varnish brush—the hairs are likely to fall out and mar the new coating. When this happens the final result is poor. A good brush costs more but it holds more paint, is less likely to leak or spatter, leaves a clean edge and gives a uniform finish. Furthermore, a good brush will give long service if it is cared for properly.

Enamel Foundation

When an enamel finish is desired on an unpainted surface, it is first necessary to build up the proper foundation with flat coats of paint. All enamels, particularly white, are more or less transparent, and imperfections in the priming coats are likely to show in the finished results.

Semi-gloss interior enamel is applied to surfaces on which a not-too-brilliant gloss is desired. The difference between high gloss and semi-gloss enamels lies in the relative proportions of pigment and binder. The higher the proportions of binder, the higher the gloss.

Salt Damages Concrete

Excessive use of salt to melt ice on sidewalks will damage the concrete and leather shoes. Calcium chloride mixed half and half with sand and spread sparingly is recommended instead of salt.

A Spacious,
Early-American
Type House

Rooms Eight
Bedrooms Four
Closets Ten
Cubage: House 27,000 ft.
Garage 4,200 ft.
Dimensions 37' x 26'

Although it contains seven spacious rooms, "The Gould" is economical to build because it measures but 37x26 feet in overall dimensions.

The roof overhang and the ornamental drops add to the attractiveness of the house exterior; the overhang also provides extra living space for the second floor.

Either an all wood or a combination wood and masonry finish, as in the illustration, can be used with equally attractive and effective results for "The Gould."

Somewhat protected by the second story overhang, the front doorway is itself very attractive. Glass panels in the upper section of the door add decorative appeal and at the same time serve the practical function of admitting light to the entry hall.

Both the dining and the living rooms open directly off the entry hall which connects with another hallway leading to the other rooms on the first floor of this house. A large closet is conveniently located in the further section of the right wall in the hallway.

Measuring 24'x6'x13' 6", the living room is a spacious, pleasant and well planned room. Three windows provide plenty of light and ventilation for the room and also add decorative appeal. Located in the center of the left wall, the fireplace also serves both a practical and decorative purpose.

Almost directly across the entry hall from the living room is the 13' 6"x12' 6" dining room. The three windowed bay in the front wall takes top decorative honors in this room; plan your color scheme and furniture arrangement accordingly. Extra light and ventilation is provided by the window in the right wall.

To save yourself steps when you're serving meals in the dining room as well as when you're clearing the table afterwards, be sure to place your dining room table and chair set as near to the doorway from the kitchen as possible. And if you'd like extra china storage space, have cabinets built into the two left corners of the room.

Larger than many of the kitchens found in modern homes, the kitchen is planned as a work center yet contains enough area for a good-sized breakfast nook in the right front corner of the room. Working counter, cupboards and cabinets are arranged in a U along the left, back and right walls of the 13' 6"x12' room. Located under the double windows in the back wall, the sink is centered in the line of working counters. The stove is placed at the right end of the array of counters. You'll find the broom closet, in the left front corner of the room, a convenient storage spot for your brooms, mops, and all types of cleaning equipment. Placed right next to the broom closet is the refrigerator which is located just a few steps from the working counters and but a short distance from the stove.

The utility room is reached through the door in the right kitchen wall. Two windows and a door in both the front and back walls of this room provide plenty of light and good ventilation as well as easy access to both the front and back yards. That last-named factor is especially appreciated on washdays.

Protection both to and from the garage is provided by the utility room. Measuring 20'x12' the garage itself receives ample light and ventilation from the window in the right wall. Large enough to hold a work bench for the home handy man, the garage has good overhead storage space.

All of the bedrooms on the second floor of "The Gould" have cross ventilation and good storage space. A central hallway connects all the bedrooms, the bathroom (placed between the two front bedrooms) and the laundry, placed between the two rear bedrooms.

Both the right back bedroom and the left front one measures 12'x11'6", while the remaining two bedrooms each are 13'10"x12'6" in dimensions. As the left back bedroom has the most storage space it contains three good sized closets; it is most suitable for the master bedroom. The right front bedroom has two closets and could be shared by two youngsters.

Prized Paintings Provide
Color Scheme for Room

Prized paintings are frequently used as cues for a room's color scheme. In one room where this was successfully accomplished, walls and woodwork were painted a soft blue, which set off the beauty of several fine pieces in mahogany and maple. Other colors from the paintings which were introduced in the room's decoration were soft red and bluish-green. All of these colors were combined in the antique star-wheel quilt which was used effectively as upholstery for the sofa.

Asphalt Tile in Lighter
Colors Now Produced

For the first time, asphalt tile in a light yellow, green and a bright red are available. Until now the tiles have been available only in dark colors.

To achieve the new light colors the manufacturer has added more vinyl resins as a binder.

Baseboard Heat Gets
High Rating in Tests

In its test bungalow, the National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C., has found that a baseboard heating system produces smaller floor-to-head-level temperature variations than any other heating system tested to date in the 4-room structure.

These and other facts about baseboard heating systems are reported by the National Bureau of Standards in a 20-page booklet entitled "Study of a Baseboard Convector System in a Test Bungalow."

The tests were aimed at observing temperature differences at several levels above the floors, at measuring room-to-room temperature differences, and at comparing the performance of two types of room temperature controls in the system. The two controls were a room thermostat and an outdoor thermostat with a modulating 3-way valve.

It was found that the outdoor thermostat and modulating control valve eliminated fluctuating room temperatures and "cold seventies."

"The baseboard heating system," says the bureau, "is well suited for application to basementless houses because it is installed above the floor level and because it provides better comfort than most other systems at the floor level."

The bureau points out that this type of system can also be used in houses with basements with the boiler located below the floor.

Cheap Paintbrush Will Prove Poor Economy

It isn't economy to choose a cheap paint or varnish brush—the hairs are likely to fall out and mar the new coating. When this happens the final result is poor. A good brush costs more but it holds more paint, is less likely to leak or spatter, leaves a clean edge and gives a uniform finish. Furthermore, a good brush will give long service if it is cared for properly.

Enamel Foundation

When an enamel finish is desired on an unpainted surface, it is first necessary to build up the proper foundation with flat coats of paint. All enamels, particularly white, are more or less transparent and imperfections in the priming coats are likely to show in the finished results.

Lighter Tint Is Safer
In Picking Wall Paint

When you're selecting a color for the walls of a room, remember to choose a lighter tint of paint than the finished effect you desire. The same color used on a large wall surface looks much darker than it does on a small color chip. Furthermore, when a color is used on four wall surfaces, it is reflected and intensified.

FEUD OVER ILLINOIS JUDGESHIPS

President Truman has placed himself in an extremely awkward position by feuding with Democratic Senator Douglas of Illinois over the filling of federal judgeship vacancies in that state.

Chicago and northern Illinois lawyers, polled as to their preferences, have voted in favor of the Douglas slate of candidates and against Mr. Truman's choices. Douglas said his course of action would be guided by the poll results. It can be expected, therefore, that he will now seek the support of his Senate colleagues in opposing the President's candidates.

This aid almost certainly will be forthcoming, since Senate tradition dictates that senators stand together solidly in these matters. When Mr. Truman nominated two judges of his own choice and ignored the Douglas recommendations, he flouted one of the most cherished Senate customs.

The United States Code states that the President shall appoint federal judges "with the advice and consent of the Senate." Through long years, "advice" has come to mean the advice of the senators from the state where the appointment is to be made.

Not often have presidents failed to observe the courtesy of respecting a senator's counsel. But in this instance Mr. Truman has chosen to do so.

All reports agree the President was angered by evidences of Douglas' party "irregularity." He frequently trumpets for government economy in a way that seems to reflect on the soundness of Mr. Truman's budget estimates.

He took part in the Senate inquiry into the RFC, a probe that deeply embarrassed the administration. Recently he conducted an investigation into government ethics, and there were more aspersions cast on administration morals.

Douglas called for Secretary of State Acheson's resignation on the ground he was a "war casualty." And he has let it be known he favors General Eisenhower for the 1952 Democratic nomination, if Mr. Truman himself is not a candidate.

None of this behavior is calculated to endear him to the President, who puts great store by party loyalty and regularity. Douglas has pointed out in vain that he votes with the administration about 80 per cent of the time. His assurances of basic loyalty apparently have been shrugged off.

One may seriously question the wisdom of alienating a senator who so faithfully backs the President most of the time, simply because he insists on showing a certain independence of mind. Is this the way to encourage brave statesmanship on Capitol Hill?

One may also question Mr. Truman's political shrewdness in this case. If Douglas enlists his colleagues' help, the President cannot win. He may never appoint these particular Douglas candidates, but neither will he ever be able to put over judges who are strictly of his own choosing.

Mr. Truman has tried to penalize independence. Barring the unforeseen, he will fail in this attempt. It is likely that he, rather than Douglas, will emerge from this feud with diminished stature and influence.

Women comprise the tiniest bit more than fifty per cent of the people. It just seems like much more at times.

Everything has its place, we are told. The only problem is where to find it.

TV, THE MODERN MAGNET

The nation's household movers say the United States population is on the go as never in history. Movers' shipments are up from 17 to 50 per cent.

Americans always have been pretty mobile, especially in wartime. But how account for this spurt six years after a war?

The sober-sided haulers mutter something about "decentralization of industry."

Our private theory is that everybody is just trying to get within range of the nearest television transmitter.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

LATTIMORE AGAIN

No data now available to the McCarran Committee was not available to the Tydings Committee. I say that from direct and personal knowledge. The "Amerasia" trail led directly to the Institute of Pacific Relations, but Senator Tydings chose to be diverted into a quarrel with his colleague, Senator Joe McCarthy.

I fear that the difference between Senator Tydings and Senator Pat McCarran is that the Nevada is looking for the facts concerning the infiltration of Communists into our government and Senator Tydings was distressed by what he found.

The issue of Owen Lattimore again rears its curious head. A comparison will have to be made from the record between the testimony before the Tydings and the McCarran committees to discover the role of Lattimore in our affairs. I want to quote a few sentences from a letter that Lattimore sent to E. C. Carter:

"I think that you are pretty cagey in turning over so much to the China section of the enquiry to Asiaticus, Han-seng and Chi. They will bring out the absolutely essential radical aspects, but can be depended on to do it with the right touch."

"For the general purposes of this enquiry it seems to me that the good scoring position, for the IPR, differs with different countries. For China, my hunch is that it will pay to keep behind the official Chinese Communist position—far enough not to be covered by the same label—but enough ahead of the active Chinese Liberals to be noticeable. For Japan, on the other hand, hang back so as not to be inconveniently ahead of the Japanese Liberals, who cannot keep up whereas the Chinese Liberals can. So the chief thing is to oppose the military wing of Japanese aggression in China, counting on a check there to take care of both the military and the civilian components of aggression in Japan. For the British—scare the hell out of them, always in a polite way, but usually in a way that looks as if it might turn impolite. The British Liberal group is badly flustered; and being British, the way to encourage them to pull themselves together is to fluster the Tories. For the USSR—back their international policy in general, but without using their slogans and above all without giving them or anybody else an impression of 'subservience'."

The importance of this letter is that already the McCarran Committee has disclosed a list of about 80 names of persons associated with the Institute of Pacific Relations who, as experts, played an important role in the formation of the American policy concerning China. Such men as President Truman, Dean Acheson and George C. Marshall could not have formulated that policy all on their own because they did not and do not know enough about the subject. The experts, who formed the policy, were generally associated, in one manner or another, with the Institute of Pacific Relations. Among these were: Alger Hiss, John Stewart Service, John Carter Vincent, Lauchlin Currie, Owen Lattimore, O. Edmund Clubb, John P. Davies, Michael Lee, Solomon Adler, Laurence Duggan, Haldore Hanson, Corliss Lamont, Lawrence K. Rosinger and Harry Dexter White.

To return to Lattimore's letter to Carter dated July 10, 1938, it is difficult to misinterpret the first paragraph quoted. The research of the Institute on China had been turned over to Communists by Carter with Lattimore's approval. Lattimore thought that it was "pretty cagey" of Carter to do that. The word cagey, is slang for tricky, sleek, putting one over. The theory obviously was that these Chinese Communists were not known to be Communists and therefore could put over "absolutely essential radical aspects," according to Lattimore.

Look back at the date of this letter, July 10, 1938, and realize how long our defeat in China was in the making.

Lattimore, in this letter, openly and candidly advises Carter to support Soviet Russia. Now, Carter made the point that at that time, this country had recognized Soviet Russia. But so were we then in treaty relations with Japan and Germany and China and many countries.

Why should an American organization, headed by distinguished financiers, financed by Rockefeller and Carnegie money, and the deficits made up by Frederick Vanderbilt Field, back the Russian "international policy in general, but without using their slogans and above all without giving them or anybody else an impression of 'subservience'?" This requires considerable explanation both as to the fact and theory and needs comparison with Lattimore's testimony before the Tydings Committee. (Copyright, 1951, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

GROUP WORK IN MENTAL CASES

One of the advances in medicine this past few years is what is called "group" treatment of a patient who appears to have various conditions present. Thus, the patient goes into hospital under the care of his own physician who, after an examination, prescribes certain general measures and calls into consultation various specialists connected with the hospital. At the end of three or four days or a week, during which time the patient is checked over by these specialists, he may be sent home for further treatment by his own physician or to rest up to undergo operation.

Instead of having him enter hospital, the family physician may have him enter the consulting room of a group of specialists where he is checked and rechecked to find the cause of his symptoms.

Just as there are various symptoms of the body which require the services of various specialists, so physicians are finding that all diseases of the mind and of behavior are not alike and so various specialists are needed to get best results—neurologists, psychiatrists, psychologists, psychoanalysts and others.

In The Journal of the American Medical Association, Drs. Esther Bogen Tietz and Martin Grotjahn, Los Angeles, state that "the best treatment for mental cases should utilize the services of an integrated team of physicians, psychotherapists, social workers, psychologists, teachers, vocational counselors and laboratory technicians, under the direction and control of a psychoanalytically trained psychiatrist with a broad experience in the handling of all types of psychiatric disorders."

By this teamwork method, the psychiatrist can treat many more cases which, in turn, means a reduction in cost of treatment. Treatment would include various methods of shock treatment, careful analysis of moods, each psychiatrist working from the standpoint of his own specialty.

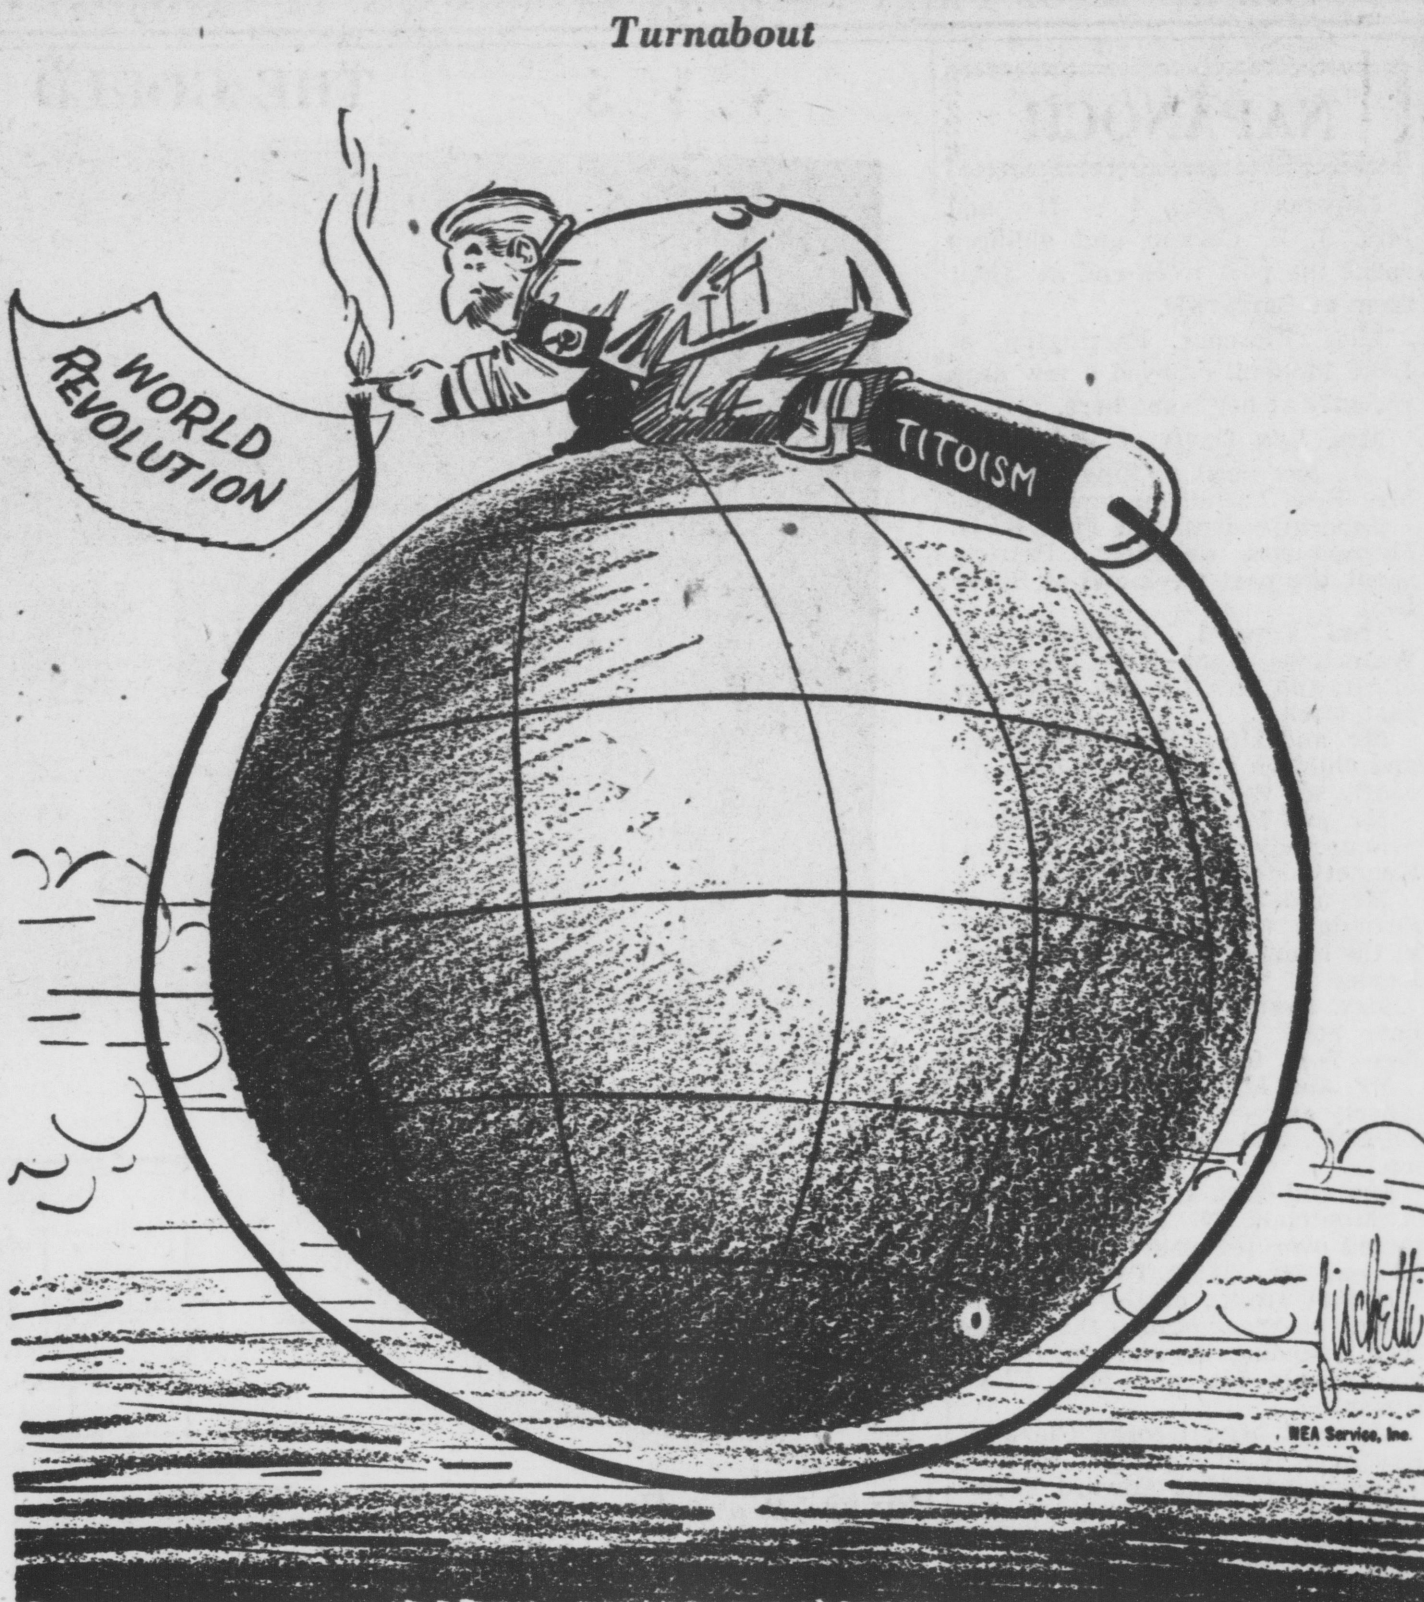

Psychiatrists need the help of talented people with special training who are willing to measure and appreciate the work and findings of each member of the psychiatric team.

Further, arrangements must be made whereby the psychiatric specialist or specialists the patient needs most can be made available after the examination is completed.

The idea that a mental patient may need a group of mental specialists may be new to us, but a disturbance of the structure of the brain itself which is the special work of the neurologist, is really just a small part of the total symptoms of mental and emotional derangement.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—One of the most interesting aspects of Congress is to see what inspires a speech or who influences a vote. Most of the time the public has no idea what backstage factors are responsible. Frequently not even other members of Congress know.

For instance, a rash of speeches broke out in the House of Representatives the other day attacking the Voice of America and State Department propaganda. In fact, seventeen speeches were made, one after another, bitterly critical of the Voice of America.

The public, of course, had no idea that these speeches were all mimeographed on the mimeograph machine or largely written by one man and his staff.

Congressmen are supposed to represent the people of the United States and make duly considered speeches which represent their own conviction—not rattle off the canned opinions of a ghost writer as if they were phonograph records.

However, copies of the canned mimeograph speeches were sent up to the press gallery, sometimes even before the congressman began to make the speech on the House floor. It was like automobiles coming off an Assembly line—17 speeches all attacking the Voice of America or Acheson, all delivered by Republicans, and all done on the same mimeograph machine.

The ghost writer who dished out this flow of words obviously was unfamiliar with the pol-parrots who were to mouth them, for he didn't even know how to spell their names. GOP congressman William Ayres of Ohio he misspelled "Ayres" and GOP Congressman Karl Stefan of Nebraska he misspelled "Steffan."

An Old Grudge
This backstage business, of course, was known to the congressmen, though not to the public. But what not even the congressmen knew was that the man behind all these canned speeches probably would not have had them written had he not been eased out of his job by the man who now heads up the Voice of America.

Assistant Secretary of State Ed Barrett, now in charge of State Department propaganda, was formerly editor of Newsweek Magazine, and as such had serious differences with a member of his staff, Robert Humphries.

So much National Association of Manufacturers propaganda began creeping into Newsweek columns through Humphries that Barrett was about to ease him out, when Humphries beat him to it and resigned.

Humphries then took a $25,000 job as chief ghost writer and researcher for the Republican congressional committee. As such he has a ritz suite in the George Washington Inn just across from the Capitol where a group of writers grind out the speeches for congressmen who are elected to think for themselves instead of parroting the views of a spitmonger with an axe to grind against his former boss.

Those are some of the backstage factors the public doesn't always know about when it reads weighty speeches delivered on the floor of Congress or learns of a campaign being waged against the Voice of America.

Making Democracy Work

Some people talk about communism, others do something about communism. In the long run, the doers are a lot more important in preventing communism than the talkers. Here are some people who have gone out and done things rather than just make Senate speeches:

General Federation of Women's Clubs—Mrs. Hiram Cole Houghton, livewire president, and her colleagues have sent radio sets to Iran to help get the Voice of America heard; have organized five and a half million members in foreign countries, thus cementing closer understanding with the U. S. A.; and are inspiring several thousand friendship letters to women abroad.

Inter-American Congress of Free Trade Unions—This is a group of North American and Latin American unions which are fighting against communism in Latin America. Francisco Aguirre of Cuba, George Meany of the AFL and Jake Potofsky of the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers are among its leaders. Most people don't realize it, but communism has begun to creep in our own front Latin American door, and these labor men are doing a skillful organization job to check it.

ECA's Pen Pals—A lot of individual Americans wonder what they can do about communism abroad. Here's one small step. The individual touch sometimes counts more than government contacts, and the ECA in Washington has arranged for letters from individual Americans to be sent to individual Europeans, especially from workmen to workmen. It's among the labor classes that communism has made greatest inroads, and letters similar to the "democracy letters to Italy" during the Italian elections, help a great deal. A letter sent to "Pen Pals, Washington, D. C." will be translated and sent to any country you designate, or you can leave the designation up to ECA.

Texas Long Tom

Gruff old Senator Tom Connally, the colorful Texan, is not one to conceal his impatience over long-winded orators.

The other day, Senator George Malone of Nevada, who can turn a simple question into a filibuster, was pestering Connally on trade agreements.

With a sigh that could be heard all over the chamber, Connally answered a Malone question, to which the Nevada replied eagerly: "I am very happy to be informed of that fact."

"I hope," grumbled the gentleman from Texas, "the senator stays happy."

Washington Pipeline

One senator, George of Georgia, didn't show up for a single vote while billions of dollars were being dished out for Post Office, Treasury, and Agriculture Departments. George had the excuse that he was writing the nation's tax bill. However, some senators also think it's important to see how the tax money is being spent.

Congressman Furcolo of Massachusetts, Democrat, is planning to run against Senator Cabot Lodge, Republican. Lodge may even have trouble inside the Republican Party from Sinclair Weeks, the national GOP treasurer, who is thinking of running, too. Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, who has done such a valuable job of exposing poor military housing, will next crack down on rent gouging around naval and marine bases. Price Enforcement Chief Ed Morgan has ordered his price G-men to make a thorough investigation of the high price of baler twine. Black marketers have been selling baler twine to farmers from trucks at night.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Aug. 4, 1931—Thelma Bieffer died of injuries suffered in an automobile accident at Ulster Park. Miss Elizabeth Donnelly died at Port Ewen.

Thomas Dennison died at Rosendale.

Aug. 4, 1941—Local police were asked to cooperate in the drive to save gasoline in eastern seaboard states.

State farmers were using women, children and older men to harvest crops as hired men sought high-paid industrial jobs.

Mayor C. J. Heiselman, John J. Schwenk, Alderman-at-large, and City Judge Matthew V. Cahill were named to succeed themselves in office at the city Republican convention.

The Democrats nominated Theron Lasher of Woodstock for sheriff. Mrs. Mary O'Connor, of Rosendale, public welfare officer, and Fred Coulter, New Paltz, for coroner, but postponed action for two days on naming city candidates.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Aug. 3—Word has been received here of the death of Pfc. Carl Farrell, 82nd Airborne Division, who was fatally injured on Monday in a truck accident at Fort Benning, Ga. The young paratrooper, 18, was a former resident of Zena and Shokan. He enlisted last year while making his home with his grandmother, Margaret Clark of New Rochelle. Carl is survived by his mother, Mrs. M. DeLong; two brothers, David, also of an airborne division, and Joseph, a veteran of Marine Corps service who lives in California; and a sister, Diane DeLong. This is the second recent bereavement for Mrs. DeLong, who resides in Shokan, her husband, Maynard DeLong, a War 2 disabled veteran, having died last May.

Callers here Wednesday included David Warrenbrand, riding-master at Camp High Point on the west side of the reservoir. David, who assisted Peter Maurer in conducting a riding academy there several years ago, is taking a veterinary course at Adelphi College and expects to continue his studies next year at the University of Pennsylvania. He reports that Peter now has two stables in the metropolitan area.

Barbara E. Haver, whose marriage to Robert S. Russell took place Saturday in Kingston, comes of old Olive stock, her grandparents, William and Elizabeth Haver having been residents of Olive City for many years previous to waterworks days.

Mrs. Harold Corwin and two children of Astoria, L. I., are at their summer place near the Reformed Church. Harold expects to come here for his vacation later in August. Mrs. Corwin, the former Alberta Gordon of Brown's, is a sister of Mrs. George Kruger of Kingston.

Birthdays falling on Saturday, Aug. 4, include that of Ed Finn, central Broadway young businessman who is a frequent caller in Shokan. He was born in Kingston, attended St. Mary's and Kingston High School, and is married to Catherine Longendyke.

Estella Slavin has returned to her home on the mountain road following two weeks at Camp Wendy.

Charles and Marvin Greene, state road farmers, have completed their hayings. They were assisted by James Rutherford with his team and Louis Thiel.

Benjamin Lother, formerly of Utica, is making his home at the Harry Weeks residence while conducting a landscaping business in these parts.

So They Say...

You have to study this subject (bill on whether manufacturers should absorb freight charges) hard for six months before you can understand it, and then it's so complicated you can't explain it. —Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.)

The young person today sees... that the things that separate men from one another are less important than the things they have in common. —Thornton Wilder, author.

The business of the schools is not to break up the habits of young people of reading confessions, glamorized movie magazines, comic books and the like, but rather to open new doors. —Wallace R. Murray, speech educator, San Jose College.

You may be wondering what effect a truce in Korea will have upon our defense mobilization program. The answer is it will have no effect. —Charles E. Wilson, mobilization director.

FEUD OVER ILLINOIS JUDGESHIPS

President Truman has placed himself in an extremely awkward position by feuding with Democratic Senator Douglas of Illinois over the filling of federal judgeship vacancies in that state.

Chicago and northern Illinois lawyers, polled as to their preferences, have voted in favor of the Douglas slate of candidates and against Mr. Truman's choices. Douglas said his course of action would be guided by the poll results. It can be expected, therefore, that he will now seek the support of his Senate colleagues in opposing the President's candidates.

This aid almost certainly will be forthcoming, since Senate tradition dictates that senators stand together solidly in these matters. When Mr. Truman nominated two judges of his own choice and ignored the Douglas recommendations, he flouted one of the most cherished Senate customs.

The United States Code states that the President shall appoint federal judges "with the advice and consent of the Senate." Through long years, "advice" has come to mean the advice of the senators from the state where the appointment is to be made.

Not often have presidents failed to observe the courtesy of respecting a senator's counsel. But in this instance Mr. Truman has chosen to do so.

All reports agree the President was angered by evidences of Douglas' party "irregularity." He frequently trumpets for government economy in a way that seems to reflect on the soundness of Mr. Truman's budget estimates.

He took part in the Senate inquiry into the RFC, a probe that deeply embarrassed the administration. Recently he conducted an investigation into government ethics, and there were more aspersions cast on administration morals.

Douglas called for Secretary of State Acheson's resignation on the ground he was a "war casualty." And he has let it be known he favors General Eisenhower for the 1952 Democratic nomination, if Mr. Truman himself is not a candidate.

None of this behavior is calculated to endear him to the President, who puts great store by party loyalty and regularity. Douglas has pointed out in vain that he votes with the administration about 80 per cent of the time. His assurances of basic loyalty apparently have been shrugged off.

One may seriously question the wisdom of alienating a senator who so faithfully backs the President most of the time, simply because he insists on showing a certain independence of mind. Is this the way to encourage brave statesmanship on Capitol Hill?

One may also question Mr. Truman's political shrewdness in this case. If Douglas enlists his colleagues' help, the President cannot win. He may never appoint these particular Douglas candidates, but neither will he be able to put over judges who are strictly of his own choosing.

Mr. Truman has tried to penalize independence. Barring the unforeseen, he will fail in this attempt. It is likely that he, rather than Douglas, will emerge from this feud with diminished stature and influence.

Women comprise the tiniest bit more than fifty per cent of the people. It just seems like much more at times.

Everything has its place, we are told. The only problem is where to find it.

TV, THE MODERN MAGNET

The nation's household movers say the United States population is on the go as never in history. Movers' shipments are up from 17 to 50 per cent.

Americans always have been pretty mobile, especially in wartime. But how account for this spurt six years after a war?

The sober-sided haulers mutter something about "decentralization of industry."

Our private theory is that everybody is just trying to get within range of the nearest television transmitter.

LATTIMORE AGAIN

No data now available to the McCarran Committee was not available to the Tydings Committee. I say that from direct and personal knowledge. The "Amerasia" trail led directly to the Institute of Pacific Relations, but Senator Tydings chose to be diverted into a quarrel with his colleague, Senator Joe McCarthy.

I fear that the difference between Senator Tydings and Senator Pat McCarran is that the Nevada is looking for the facts concerning the infiltration of Communists into our government and Senator Tydings was distressed by what he found.

The issue of Owen Lattimore again rears its curious head. A comparison will have to be made from the record between the testimony before the Tydings and the McCarran committees to discover the role of Lattimore in our affairs. I want to quote a few sentences from a letter that Lattimore sent to E. C. Carter:

"I think that you are pretty cagey in turning over so much to the China section of the enquiry to Asiaticus, Han-seng and Chi. They will bring out the absolutely essential radical aspects, but can be depended on to do it with the right touch."

"For the general purposes of this enquiry, it seems to me that the good scoring position, for the IPR, differs with different countries. For China, my hunch is that it will pay to keep behind the official Chinese Communist position—far enough not to be covered by the same label—but enough ahead of the active Chinese Liberals to be noticeable. For Japan, on the other hand, hang back so as not to be inconspicuously ahead of the Japanese Liberals who cannot keep up whereas the Chinese Liberals can. So the chief thing is to oppose the military wing of Japanese aggression in China, counting on a check there to take care of both the military and the civilian components of aggression in Japan. For the British—scare the hell out of them, always in a polite way, but usually in a way that looks as if it might turn impolite. The British Liberal groups are badly flustered; and being British, the way to encourage them to pull themselves together is to fluster the Tories. For the USSR—back their international policy in general, but without using their slogans and above all without giving them or anybody else an impression of subservience."

The importance of this letter is that already the McCarran Committee has disclosed a list of about 80 names of persons associated with the Institute of Pacific Relations who, as experts, played an important role in the formation of the American policy concerning China. Such men as President Truman, Dean Acheson and George C. Marshall could not have formulated that policy all on their own, because they did not and do not know enough about the subject. The experts, who formed the policy, were generally associated, in one manner or another, with the Institute of Pacific Relations. Among these were: Alger Hiss, John Stewart Service, John Carter Vincent, Lauchlin Currie, Owen Lattimore, O. Edmund Lubb, John P. Davies, Michael Lee, Solomon Adler, Laurence Duggan, Halldore Hanson, Corliss Lamont, Lawrence K. Rosinger and Harry Dexter White.

To return to Lattimore's letter to Carter dated July 10, 1938, it is difficult to misinterpret the first paragraph quoted. The research of the Institute on China had been turned over to Communists by Carter with Lattimore's approval. Lattimore thought that it was "pretty cagey" of Carter to do that. The word cagey, is slang for tricky, sleek, putting one over. The theory obviously was that these Chinese Communists were not known to be Communists and therefore could put over "absolutely essential radical aspects," according to Lattimore.

Look back at the date of this letter, July 10, 1938, and realize how long our defeat in China was in the making.

Lattimore, in this letter, openly and candidly advises Carter to support Soviet Russia. Now, Carter made the point that at that time, this country had recognized Soviet Russia. But so were we then in treaty relations with Japan and Germany and China and many other countries.

Why should an American organization, headed by distinguished Americans, financed by Rockefeller and Carnegie money, and the deficits made up by Frederick Vanderbilt Field, back the Russian "international policy in general, but without using their slogans and above all without giving them or anybody else an impression of subservience?" This requires considerable explanation both as to the fact and theory and needs comparison with Lattimore's testimony before the Tydings Committee.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

GROUP WORK IN MENTAL CASES

One of the advances in medicine this past few years is what is called "group" treatment of a patient who appears to have various conditions present. Thus, the patient goes into hospital under the care of his own physician who, after an examination, prescribes certain general measures and calls into consultation various specialists connected with the hospital. At the end of three or four days or a week, during which time the patient is checked over by these specialists, he may be sent home for further treatment by his own physician or to rest up to undergo operation.

Instead of having him enter hospital, the family physician may have him enter the consulting room of a group of specialists where he is checked and rechecked to find the cause of his symptoms.

Just as there are various symptoms of the body which require the services of various specialists, so physicians are finding that all diseases of the mind and of behavior are not alike and so various specialists are needed to get best results—neurologists, psychiatrists, psychologists, psychoanalysts and others.

In The Journal of the American Medical Association, Drs. Esther Bogen Tietz and Martin Grotjahn, Los Angeles, state that "the best treatment for mental cases should utilize the services of an integrated team of physicians, psychotherapists, social workers, psychologists, teachers, vocational counselors and laboratory technicians, under the direction and control of a psychoanalytically trained psychiatrist with a broad experience in the handling of all types of psychiatric disorders."

By this teamwork method, the psychiatrist can treat many more cases which, in turn, means a reduction in cost of treatment. Treatment would include various methods of shock treatment, careful analysis of moods, each psychiatrist working from the standpoint of his own specialty.

Psychiatrists need the help of talented people with special training who are willing to measure and appreciate the work and findings of each member of the psychiatric team.

Further, arrangements must be made whereby the psychiatric specialist or specialists the patient needs most can be made available after the examination is completed.

The idea that a mental patient may need a group of mental specialists may be new to us, but a disturbance of the structure of the brain itself which is the special work of the neurologist, is really just a small part of the total symptoms of mental and emotional derangement.

Turnabout

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—One of the most interesting aspects of Congress is to see what inspires a speech or who influences a vote. Most of the time the public has no idea what backstage factors are responsible. Frequently not even other members of Congress know.

For instance, a rash of speeches broke out in the House of Representatives the other day attacking the Voice of America and State Department propaganda. In fact, seventeen speeches were made, one after another, bitterly critical of the Voice of America.

The public, of course, had no idea that these speeches were all mimeographed on the mimeograph machine or largely written by one man and his staff.

Congressmen are supposed to represent the people of the United States and make duly considered speeches which represent their own views. But in this case, the speeches were the work of a ghost writer as if they were phonograph records.

However, copies of the canned mimeograph speeches were sent up to the press gallery, sometimes even before the speaker had begun to make the speech on the House floor below. It was like automobiles coming off an Assembly line—17 speeches all attacking the Voice of America or Acheson, all delivered by Republicans, and all done on the same mimeograph machine.

The ghost writer who dished out this flow of words obviously was unfamiliar with the poll-parrots who were to mouth them, for he didn't even know how to spell their names. GOP congressman William Ayres of Ohio he misspelled "Ayres," and GOP congressman Karl Stefan of Nebraska he misspelled "Steffan."

An Old Grudge
This backstage business, of course, was known to the congressmen, though not to the public. But what not even the congressmen knew was that the man behind all these canned speeches probably would not have had them written had he not been eased out of his job by the man who now heads up the Voice of America.

Assistant Secretary of State Ed Barrett, now in charge of State Department propaganda, was formerly editor of Newsweek Magazine, and as such had serious differences with a member of his staff, Robert Humphries.

So much National Association of Manufacturers propaganda began creeping into Newsweek columns through Humphries that Barrett was about to ease him out, when Humphries beat him to it and resigned.

Humphries then took a $25,000 job as chief ghost writer and researcher for the Republican congressional committee. As such he has a ritzy suite in the George Washington Inn just across from the Capitol where a group of writers grind out the speeches for congressmen who are elected to think for themselves instead of parroting the views of a spitmonger with an axe to grind against his former boss.

Those are some of the backstage factors the public doesn't always know about when it reads speeches delivered on the floor of Congress or learns of a campaign being waged against the Voice of America.

Making Democracy Work
Some people talk about communism, others do something about communism. In the long run, the doers are a lot more important in preventing communism than the talkers. Here are some people who have gone out and done things rather than just make Senate speeches:

General Federation of Women's Clubs—Mrs. Hiram Cole Houghton, livewire president, and her colleagues have sent radio sets to Iran to help get the Voice of America heard; have organized five and a half million members in foreign countries, thus cementing local understanding with the U. S. A.; and are inspiring several thousand friendship letters to women abroad.

Inter-American Congress of Free Trade Unions—This is a group of North American and Latin American unions which are fighting against communism in Latin America. Francisco Aguirre of Cuba, George Meany of the AFL and Jake Potofsky of the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers are among its leaders. Most people don't realize it, but communism has begun to creep in our own front Latin American door, and these labor men are doing a skillful organization job to check it.

ECA's Pen Pals—A lot of individual Americans wonder what they can do about communism abroad. Here's one small step. The individual touch sometimes counts more than government contacts, and the ECA in Washington has arranged for letters from individual Americans to be sent to individual Europeans, especially from workingmen to workingmen. It's among the labor classes that communism has made greatest inroads, and letters similar to the "democracy letters to Italy" during the Italian elections, help a great deal. A letter sent to Pen Pals, Washington, D. C., will be translated and sent to any country you designate, or you can leave the designation up to ECA.

Texas Long Tom
Gruff old Senator Tom Connally, the colorful Texan, is not one to conceal his impatience over long-winded orators.

The other day, Senator George Malone of Nevada, who can turn a simple question into a filibuster, was pestering Connally on trade agreements.

With a sign that could be heard all over the chamber, Connally answered a Malone question, to which the Nevada replied eagerly: "I am very happy to be informed of that fact."

"I hope," grumbled the gentleman from Texas, "the senator stays happy."

Washington Pipeline
One senator, George of Georgia, didn't show up for a single vote while billions of dollars were being dished out for Post Office, Treasury, and Agriculture Departments. George had the excuse that he was writing the nation's tax bill. However, some senators also think it's important to see how the tax money is being spent.

Congressman Furcolo of Massachusetts, Democrat, is planning to run against Senator Cabot Lodge, Republican. Lodge may even have trouble inside the Republican Party from Sinclair Weeks, the national single vote-ur, who is thinking of running too. . . . Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, who has done such a valuable job of exposing poor military housing, will next crack down on rent gouging around naval and marine bases. . . . Price Enforcement Chief Ed Morgan has ordered his price G-men to make a thorough investigation of the high price of bales of twine. Black marketeers have been selling bales of twine to farmers from trucks at night.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Aug. 4, 1931—Thelma Bieffer died of injuries suffered in an automobile accident at Uter Park. Miss Elizabeth Donnelly died at Port Ewen.

Thomas Dennison died at Rosendale.

Aug. 4, 1941—Local police were asked to cooperate in the drive to save gasoline in eastern seaboard states.

State farmers were using women, children and older men to harvest crops as hired men sought high-paid industrial jobs.

Mayor C. J. Heiselman, John J. Schwenk, alderman-at-large, and City Judge Matthew V. Cahill were named to succeed themselves in office at the city Republican convention.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Aug. 3—Word has been received here of the death of Pfc. Carl Farrell, 82nd Airborne Division, who was fatally injured on Monday in a truck accident at Fort Benning, Ga. The young paratrooper, 18, was a former resident of Zena and Shokan. He enlisted last year while making his home with his grandmother, Margaret Clark of New Rochelle. Carl is survived by his mother, Mrs. M. DeLong; two brothers, David, also of an airborne division, and Joseph, a veteran of Marine Corps service who lives in California; and a sister, Diane DeLong. This is the second recent bereavement for Mrs. DeLong, who resides in Shokan, her husband, Maynard DeLong, a War 2 disabled veteran, having died last May.

Callers here Wednesday included David Warrenbrand, riding master at Camp High Point on the west side of the reservoir. David, who assisted Peter Maurer in conducting a riding academy here several years ago, is taking a veterinary course at Adelphi College and expects to continue his studies next year at the University of Pennsylvania. He reports that Peter now has two stables in the metropolitan area.

Barbara E. Haver, whose marriage to Robert S. Russell took place Saturday in Kingston, comes of old Olive stock, her grandparents, William and Elizabeth Haver having been residents of Olive City for many years previous to waterworks days.

Mrs. Harold Corwin and two children of Astoria, L. I., are at their summer place near the Reformed Church. Harold expects to come here for his vacation later in August. Mrs. Corwin, the former Alberta Gordon of Brown's, is a sister of Mrs. George Kuriger of Kingston.

Birthdays falling on Saturday, Aug. 4 include that of Ed Finn, central Broadway young businessman who is a frequent caller in Shokan. He was born in Kingston, attended St. Mary's and Kingston High School, and is married to Catherine Longendyke.

Estella Slavin has returned to her home on the mountain road following two weeks at Camp Wendy.

Charles and Marvin Greene, state road farmers, have completed their haying. They were assisted by James Rutherford with his team and Louis Thiel, Benjamin Lother, formerly of Utica, is making his home at the Harry Weeks residence while conducting a landscaping business in these parts.

So They Say...

Believe It or Not!

The floating church (1850-1880) was designed and built by a self-taught architect and builder of New York, Clement L. Dennington, for the Churchman's Missionary Association for the seamen of the port of Philadelphia. The church was firmly fastened on a substantial deck and resting on two boats of 80 tons each, placed ten feet apart, and strongly connected together. The church could seat 500 persons and had a fine-toned organ and bell.

Plans for Alterations

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, building inspector, reported today that plans have been filed for alterations to St. Joseph's Church and school in this city. The alterations, planned for fire safety purposes, include the installation of additional exits and fire escapes. When the work will begin depends upon the arrival of material, the fire chief said.

Cave's Car Stolen

James W. Cave of 324 Wall street reported to the sheriff's office early this morning that his 1949 Chevrolet two-door sedan was stolen from the parking lot at the Barn on the Ontario Trail near the Washington avenue viaduct. The automobile, black in color, bore the license plates 8D-41-78.

Local Death Record

Harry Meyers

Harry Meyers of Highmount died at Margaretville on Friday. He was a brother of Mrs. Howard Van Loan of Highmount, Mrs. Anna Grandier of Manou, Ill., and Walter Meyers of Chicago, Ill. The body is resting at the Gormley Funeral Home in Phenicia. Time of funeral will be announced.

Mrs. Victor G. McIver

A report in Friday's Local Death Record column of funeral services for Victor G. McIver of Stone Ridge was incorrect, and should have stated that the funeral was held for Mrs. Victor G. McIver. Mr. McIver survives his wife, Mrs. Mary McIver, who died early Monday, and whose funeral was held Thursday morning at St. Peter's Church, where a high Mass of requiem was offered by the Rev. John F. Kelly. Burial was in St. Peter's Cemetery, where the Rev. Father Kelly gave the final absolution. Bearers were George Krempner, Cuyler Van Vechten, John Boyle and William Mills.

Mrs. Virginia Craig Cutler

Mrs. Virginia Craig Cutler died early today at her home in Cottekill after a long illness. A native of Ulster Park, Mrs. Cutler had been a resident of Cottekill the past five years. Surviving are her husband, Philip Cutler, parents, Chester and Ora Ellsworth Craig, six brothers, Chester, Jr., Calvin, Edwin, Floyd, Robert and Stephen Craig; four sisters, Mrs. George Baxter, Mrs. Isaac Williams, Mrs. Frederick Quick and Miss Ella Joy Craig. Funeral services will be held at the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Main street, Rosendale, on Tuesday, August 7, 1951, at 2 p. m. Interment in the Rosendale Plains Cemetery.

Mrs. Lydia L. Marks

The funeral of Mrs. Lydia L. Marks of 118 Newkirk avenue was held Friday afternoon from the Jensen and Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Downs street. In addition to many relatives, a large number of friends and members of Trinity Lutheran Church attended the services, which were conducted by the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick. During the bereavement, many called at the chapel to express words of sympathy to the family. Beautiful floral pieces, banded around the casket testified to the high esteem in which she was held. Burial was in Montrose Cemetery, where Dr. Gollnick conducted services at the grave. Bearers were members of the family.

James DeCicco

James DeCicco of 20 Smith avenue died suddenly at his home on Friday. He had led a retired life for the past two years. A native of Beloit, Italy, he came to the United States when he was 10 years old. Mr. DeCicco was a charter member of St. Liberata and St. John's societies. Surviving are his wife, Josephine Tucci DeCicco; five daughters, Mrs. Samuel Lawrence, Mrs. Joseph DeLuca, Miss Rose DeCicco, Mrs. Donald Weeks and Mrs. Anthony Pagliaro; five sons, Louis, Michael, John, Charles and Joseph L. DeCicco; also a sister, Mrs. James Nardi and a brother, John DeCicco; 13 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Burial from the family home Tuesday at 9:15 a. m. thence to St. Mary's Church where at 10 o'clock a solemn Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Burial in St. Mary's Cemetery. Friends may call at the home any time.

scribed as "badly broken up" as he gave out the bad news.

President Truman, who approved the dismissals, was described by an aide as "very much concerned."

Some 1,600 to 1,700 cadets now at West Point were said to have been stunned by the action. The academy has a total enrollment of 2,520.

Maj. Gen. Frederick Irving, academy superintendent, said the dismissals involved a "serious breach of the West Point code of honor" and consisted of "receiving improper outside assistance in academic work."

Method of Cramping

It was learned some of the cadets would take an examination and then pass on the questions to those taking it later, so they could cram for it.

About half of the cadets dismissed are now on leave and telegrams went out asking them to report back.

No action was taken against graduates accused in the affair because they are commissioned officers. Many have seen combat and some have been killed in Korea.

Secretary of Army Pacer said, "I feel that there can be no compromise in the maintenance of the high standards of conduct on which West Point was founded. The honor code is the essence of West Point and must be maintained."

ginia, said General Collins told him and several other senators that most of the Army football team was involved.

Coach Earl Blaik could not be reached for comment. He was at "disappeared" yesterday when Secretary of the Army Frank Pace Jr. disclosed in Washington that the cadets had broken the sacrosanct honor code of the United States Military Academy, the Associated Press reported.

Reaction to General Collins' tight censorship on the names of the cadets involved was widespread and vigorous.

Unfair to Innocent

Some newspaper editors and others criticized the Army's decision to withhold the names of the dismissed cadets. Typical of the protests was one by James S. Pope, managing editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal. He said:

"I am writing a protest to Gen. Collins on the ground it is grossly unfair to all students who may be leaving the academy under suspicion and urging him to release the names."

UN Forces Run Into Stubborn Resistance

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 4 (AP)—Attacking United Nations troops ran into stubborn Red resistance on Korea's western front today.

Eighth Army said the action was west of Yonchon. The Reds were supported by mortar and artillery fire.

On the central front UN forces repulsed an enemy attack that began last night.

Across the rest of the peninsula only patrol activity was reported.

One allied patrol fought a 20-minute engagement with an unknown number of Communists northwest of Korangpo. Korangpo is on the western front, 16 air miles east of Kaesong, where truce talks are deadlocked.

Fifth Air Force planes flew 208 combat missions, seeking out enemy supply and transport facilities. Marine Corsairs bombed a supply dump south of Changion and set it afire. F184 Thunderjets bombed a railroad marshaling yard south of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

It said the free world was now on guard and would not relax "when the Reds call off the tension."

It declared the Communist system "cannot survive." It referred to the "calculating, twisted intellects of the Communist leaders."

It said the free world was now on guard and would not relax "when the Reds call off the tension."

It said the Kremlin wanted China to weaken herself because the Soviets fear a strong China on "Russia's vulnerable southern frontier." It expressed doubt that the Peiping regime could last. It suggested Red China might break away from Russia as did Yugoslavia.

It was rumored at GHQ that the release had the approval of Lt. Gen. Doyle O. Hickey, last of General MacArthur's top hands still on the job there. Hickey is chief of staff to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme UN commander.

Ridgway himself, in a statement in June, made much of Russia's failure to give more military aid to Red China.

The GHQ statement today came at a time when there is speculation that Red China and the North Korean Communists are on the outs over the armistice and that Red China wants to get out of the Korean war because of heavy losses.

"Letting China take a hideous pounding from the United Nations does Sino-Soviet relations no good at all," the statement said.

The statement said many of Chinese Communist leader "Zeng-tung" best troops "are dead or crippled," and much of his equipment is lost.

"But Russia's strategy has made the Chinese Reds less sure that the Kremlin is a friend," the statement went on. "After all, China fought and bled while Russia looked on. To Mao Tse-tung this could hardly look like bosom comradeship."

The statement declared "the Communist adventure in Korea has gone awry" and the Reds must "make a drastic change in future operations."

"The free world," it added, "has awakened to the danger of communism and when the Reds call off the tension the lull will not come. The people of the democracies will be watchful and armed, waiting quietly, hopeful, yet waiting. They will be praying for peace, but they won't count on it, because when a Communist changes his mind it only means that he may change it back again some time."

Reds Refuse . . .

Korea of a large slice of territory north of 38.

These broadcasts were generally interpreted as pure propaganda, possibly designed to prepare North Koreans and Chinese for a "compromise" agreement along the lines demanded by the UN.

The Tokyo statement was issued under the title "Background Material on the Establishment of a Demilitarized Zone."

Brand Russia Aggressor

Earlier today the same division of headquarters issued a release branding Russia as the true aggressor in Korea, and charging that the Soviet presence in China weakened in the Korean war because they feared her as a neighbor.

An hour later, general headquarters asked that it be withheld, then withdrew the request.

In Kaesong, Lt. Gen. Nam II, chief Red negotiator, made his blunt statement of Red intentions in direct reply to a question by Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior United Nations envoy.

Nam also rejected a suggestion by Joy that the Reds consult a map of the area in question.

In a brief seven-minute session in the afternoon, Joy "noted for the record" that armed Chinese soldiers had violated the Kaesong neutral zone. An estimated company of Red troops passed within a few hundred yards of the UN staff house, located about a quarter of a mile from the conference site.

The Communists promised to investigate and report at some future meeting.

Asked if the incident might in any way endanger the armistice talks, Nuckols replied, "I am certainly not in a position to make any predictions on that. I might point out that the brief afternoon session today was not directly influenced by the incident."

It was completely coincidental that the afternoon session lasted only seven minutes.

Plans for Alterations

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, building inspector, reported today that plans have been filed for alterations to St. Joseph's Church and school in this city. The alterations, planned for fire safety purposes, include the installation of additional exits and fire escapes. When the work will begin depends upon the arrival of material, the fire chief said.

Cave's Car Stolen

Distress Call
Seattle, Aug. 4 (AP)—An unidentified ship sent out a distress call in southeastern Alaska waters early today, reporting it was "sinking rapidly." The Coast Guard said the vessel reported it was seven miles off the Coronado Islands, which are adjacent to Prince of Wales Island. The vessel said it needed assistance but failed to identify itself.

Gorilla Is 25
Philadelphia, Aug. 4 (AP)—Bamboo celebrates his 25th birthday tomorrow, making him the oldest giant gorilla in captivity, says the Philadelphia zoo. No special celebration is planned. Twenty-four years ago Bamboo was brought to the zoo in a suitcase. He weighed 11 pounds. Now he weighs about 435 pounds and stands six feet.

Smash Narcotics Ring
Montreal, Aug. 4 (AP)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police said last night they have smashed a narcotics ring in Montreal which they described as the biggest ever to operate in this city. Police said five men have been arrested and $200,000 worth of narcotics seized. Two more arrests are expected shortly.

Small Tropical Storm
Miami, Fla., Aug. 4 (AP)—A small tropical storm was centered early today about 225 miles southeast of Bermuda. The Weather Bureau here said the disturbance was moving in a northwesterly direction at about 20 to 22 miles an hour—a slightly faster pace than was reported yesterday.

ELLENVILLE NEWS

Ellenville, Aug. 6—At noon Monday the Southwick Restaurant at Napanoch was saved from destruction by the prompt action and good work of the Napanoch fire department. The restaurant is closed on Mondays and the proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Edelman, were away. An employee, Gus Kloepfer, who was mowing the lawn, discovered the fire and gave the alarm. At 1:15 p. m. the fire arrived. The fire department responded to a call from Oak Ridge, west of the village, where they found Beckendorf's Hill-Top House in flames and beyond being saved as there was no water supply near. The booster tank supply was used to wet down two bungalows near the large house which contained 16 rooms and was unoccupied at the time.

The house of Joseph Ricketts in Grahamsville was struck by lightning during a storm last week and badly damaged. During the storm on Wednesday the residence of Philip Newkirk in Kerhonkson was completely destroyed. It is thought that the fire was caused by lightning. Traffic through the village over the past week-end was very heavy, especially around Saturday noon and late Sunday afternoon. There were steady streams of New York and Brooklyn cars passing over the route 32 to the resorts in the Greenfield Park areas, as well as others on route 209.

The Shawangunk Garden Club will hold its August meeting Monday afternoon at Hunt Memorial Hall at 2 o'clock. Miss Helen Olds of New Paltz will speak on "The Garden." Resolutions were flowered to members in a garden work shop. Ample supplies of flowers will be on hand and those who wish to benefit by the lesson are asked to bring their own containers and equipment. Hostesses for the afternoon will be Mrs. J. Bartholomew, Mrs. Frank Sprague, Mrs. Mary Marvin and Mrs. Henry Horton. Mrs. Frank Hurd is in charge of the program.

Mrs. Herbert Levitas and Mrs. Morris Kaufman, co-chairmen, and Lawrence Craft, treasurer, announced that the total amount raised for the 1951 Cancer drive in the Town of Wawarsing is $1,703.27.

Judge Benjamin Lonstein disposed of 21 cases in traffic court last Monday evening; nine drivers were charged with speeding and the remainder with meter parking infractions.

Miss Joan Ann Hart, daughter of Mr. J. Harry Hart, and George William White were married at St. Mary's Church by the Rev. James Flynn Saturday afternoon, July 28.

Mrs. Donald H. DuBois and son Christopher, returned Saturday on the Queen Mary from England where they have been visiting for the past three months with her family. While in England Mrs. DuBois attended the Festival of Britain.

Percy Goldsmith entertained the members of the Major Dwight Divine Chapter of the Daughters of the Union at her home at Woodside Dell Saturday, July 21. Mrs. Harriet Brace was elected to membership. Mrs. Ernest Sherman presided at the meeting. Resolutions were drawn on the death of Mrs. Grace Hatch of South Fallsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dougher of this village have announced the engagement of their daughter, Theresa, to Pfc. Mervin Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Jones of Kingston. No date has been set for the wedding.

The Ellenville Reformed Church will be closed during August and the congregation will join that of the Methodist Church in union services. During July similar services were held in the Reformed Church.

scribed as "badly broken up" as he gave out the news. President Truman, who approved the dismissals, was described by an aide as "very much concerned."

Some 1,600 to 1,700 cadets now at West Point were said to have been stunned by the action. The academy has a total enrollment of 2,520.

Maj. Gen. Frederick Irving, academy superintendent, said the dismissals involved a "serious breach of the West Point code of honor" and consisted of "receiving improper outside assistance in academic work."

Method of Cramming
It was learned some of the cadets would take an examination and then pass on the questions to those taking it later, so they could cheat.

About half of the cadets dismissed are now on leave and telegrams went out asking them to report back.

No action was taken against graduates accused in the affair because they are commissioned officers. Many have seen combat and some have been killed in Korea.

Secretary of Army Paces said, "I feel that there can be no compromise in the maintenance of the high standards of conduct on which West Point was founded. The honor code is the essence of West Point and must be maintained."

Coach Earl Blaik could not be reached for comment. He was at the Academy Thursday but had "disappeared" yesterday when Secretary of the Army Frank Pace Jr. disclosed the Washington Post's report that the hands of the cadets had broken the sacrosanct honor code of the United States Military Academy, the Associated Press reported.

Reaction to General Collins' tight censorship on the names of the cadets involved was widespread and vigorous.

Unfair to Innocent
Some newspaper editors and others criticized the Army's decision to withhold the names of the dismissed cadets. Typical of the tests was one by James S. Pope, managing editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal. He said: "I am writing a protest to Gen. Collins on the ground it is grossly unfair to all students who may be leaving school to fall under suspicion, and urging him to release the names."

UN Forces Run Into

Stubborn Resistance
U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Aug. 4 (AP)—Attacking United Nations troops ran into stubborn Red resistance on Korea's western front today.

Eighth Army said the action was west of Yonchon. The Reds were supported by mortar and artillery fire.

On the central front UN forces repulsed an enemy attack that began last night.

Across the rest of the peninsula only patrol activity was reported. One allied patrol fought a 20-minute engagement with an unknown number of Communists northwest of Korangpo. Korangpo is on the western front, 16 air miles east of Kaesong, where true talks are deadlocked.

Fifth Air Force planes flew 208 combat missions, seeking out enemy supply and transport facilities. Marine Corsairs bombed a supply dump south of Changjon and set it afire. F184 Thunderjets bombed a railroad marshaling yard south of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

Buffer . . .
voltage than usual allied utterances.

It declared the Communist system "cannot survive." It referred to the "calculating, twisted intellects of the Communist leaders."

It said the free world is now on guard and would not relax "when the Reds call off the tension."

It said the Kremlin wanted China to weaken herself because the Soviets fear a strong China on "Russia's vulnerable southern frontier." It expressed doubt that the Peiping regime could last. It suggested Red China might break away from Russia as did Yugoslavia.

It was rumored at GHQ that the release had the approval of Lt. Gen. Doyle O. Hickey, last of General MacArthur's top hands still on the job there. Hickey is chief of staff to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme UN commander.

Ridgway himself, in a statement in June, made much of Russia's failure to give more military aid to Red China.

The GHQ statement today came at a time when there is speculation that Red China and the North Korean Communists are on the outs over the armistice and that Red China wants to get out of the Korean war because of heavy losses.

"Letting China take a hideous pounding from the United Nations does Sino-Soviet relations no good at all," the statement said.

The statement said many of Chinese Communist leader Tz'u-tung's best troops "are dead or crippled," and much of his equipment is lost.

"But Russia's strategy has made the Chinese Reds less sure that the Kremlin is a friend," the statement went on. "After all, China fought and bled while Russia looked on. To Mao Tz'e-tung this could hardly look like bosom comradeship."

The statement declared "the Communist adventure in Korea has gone awry" and the Reds must "make a drastic change in future operations."

"The free world," it added, "has awakened to the danger of communism and when the Red call off the tension the lull will not come. The people of the democracies will be watchful and armed, waiting quietly, hopeful, yet waiting. They will be praying for peace, but they won't count on it, because when a Communist changes his mind it only means that he may change it back again some time."

Reds Refuse . . .

Korea of a large slice of territory north of 38.

These broadcasts were generally interpreted as pure propaganda, possibly designed to prepare North Koreans and Chinese for a "compromise" agreement along the lines demanded by the UN.

The Tokyo statement was issued under the title "Background Material on the Establishment of a Demilitarized Zone."

Brand Russia Aggressor
Earlier today the same division of headquarters issued a release branding Russia as the true aggressor in Korea, and charging that the Soviets wanted China weakened in the Korean war because they feared her as a neighbor.

An hour later, general headquarters asked that it be withheld, then withdrew the request.

In Kaesong, Lt. Gen. Nam II, chief Red negotiator, made his blunt statement of Red intentions in direct reply to a question by Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior United Nations envoy.

Nam also rejected a suggestion by Joy that the Reds consult a map of the area in question.

In a brief seven-minute session in the afternoon, Joy "noted for the record" that armed Chinese soldiers had violated the Kaesong neutral zone. An estimated company of Red troops passed within a few hundred yards of the UN staff house, located about a quarter of a mile from the conference site.

The Communists promised to investigate, and report at some future meeting.

Asked if the incident might in any way endanger the armistice talks, Nuckols replied, "I am certainly not in a position to make any prediction on that. I might point out that the brief afternoon session today was not directly influenced by the presence of the troops. It was completely coincidental that the afternoon session lasted only seven minutes."

Bargaining Lever
Nuckols was asked whether the United Nations was using its air and naval power as a bargaining lever in the conference.

"Yes," he replied, "they contribute to the total military power." He said the "extreme range" of allied air and naval power "do not enter into the formulation of the suggested demilitarized zone." He described the UN suggestion in that direction as a "mistake" and added that it would be completely erroneous to speculate on any line deep in North Korea.

Admiral Joy opened today's session by reading a prepared statement which took 44 minutes, including time for translation.

The UN communiqué said Joy made "still another effort to discover a mutually acceptable viewpoint as a forerunner to a possible agreement on item two of the agenda."

Joy's effort was not made public but Nuckols said it was "very definitely no compromise."

Just before lunch Joy asked Nam II whether the Red delegation had any proposal other than their original demand for a buffer zone along 38.

The communiqué said Nam replied that the Communists "could not depart in any particular from their previously stated attitude."

At the end of the morning session, Nam II gave a one-minute "interview" to this reporter.

He was asked: "General, do you think an agreement will be reached?"

"Through an interpreter Nam replied, 'I cannot give you an answer now.'"

Van Gonsic Rallies From Six-Hole Deficit to Upset Boice, 1-Up

You can talk about Jersey Joe Walcott's upset of Ezzard Charles. Or Turpin over Ray Robinson. Rocky Marciano over Rex Layne. And that tremendous upheaval of Ruben Lenthal over Dr. George Rifenbary at Wiltwyck.

Great upsets, to be sure. But these fellows have to move over and make room for John Van Gonsic, Twaalfskill's veteran all-round sportsman.

If Van Gonsic's electrifying comeback in ousting defending champion Alvin Boice, 1 up, Friday, in the second round of Twaalfskill's championship flight, isn't the most spectacular comeback in local golf history, it will do until something better comes along.

Ten Holes in 36
SIX down with ten holes remaining against a stolid, phlegmatic champion, the old warhorse suddenly caught fire.

In the next ten holes, he blistered the Twaalfskill fairways in an even 36 strokes for a 3.6 average per hole, while shaving Boice's lead at every hole. He rocketed a 32 in the homeward nine, with three birdies, an eagle and two bogies.

Somewhere between the eighth green and the ninth tee on the first round, Boice, the champion, lost his magic touch. He got in trouble on his drive and needed seven to get in for a 39, while Van Gonsic was down in par figures to shave his deficit to five holes.

Then came the strange, unbelievable reversal of fortunes. While Boice remained unsteady with his tee shots, Van Gonsic responded with nine of the finest holes in Twaalfskill tournament history.

30-Footer Decides Match
The payoff came on the 17th hole, after Van Gonsic had squared the match on the par-five 16th with a birdie-4. His pitch shot rolled across the green to the south edge, 30 feet from the pin. Boice was short of the green but closer to the pin, so

Van Gonsic had to shoot first. Slowly and surely he stroked a beautiful putt that took off in unerring flight toward the cup, hesitated momentarily at the lip and then dropped in for a birdie-3. That gave him a 1-up edge and he guarded it doggedly with a beautiful chip shot off the edge of the 18th green for a one putt and regulation four.

Van Gonsic had a medal of 38 in the first half of the match. Then he reeled off 4-4-3-2-4-4-3-4-3-2. Boice was three-up at the end of the first four holes, six up after eight before the deluge engulfed him.

'Best of Career'
The challenger who shot what he described as "the best nine holes of my career" parred the 10th with a four. He three-putted the second to halve with a four, as Boice's tee shot landed into the short rough on the left.

Van Gonsic's tee shot landed seven feet from the pin on the difficult three and he was in continuously with a three. He drove six feet from the pin on No. 4 and canned it for an eagle-two. Then came a birdie on the long par-5 fifth. They halved the short par-5 sixth. The match was squared on the seventh (16th) as Van Gonsic hit the green on his spoon shot and was down in two putts. Boice lost a stroke when his second wood landed high in the rough above the green.

Boice's domination of the Twaalfskill championship ended with Van Gonsic's spectacular putt on the 17th green. The fading champion tried desperately to can his chip shot but it faded to the left.

There was still time to square the match and send it into extra holes, but Van Gonsic, driving superbly, split the fairway and landed on the first level of the ninth fairway. Boice, harassed by a faulty driver, placed his shot under trees below the eighth tee and was forced to pitch short of the last green.

So ended one of the great comebacks and victories in Twaalfskill history.

Army Will Continue Football Schedule

Weakened Squad Faces Big Task

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—Army will field a football team this fall. That much seems certain.

But whether it'll resemble the power houses of recent years is a question that Coach Earl Blaik himself probably can't answer until he surveys what is left of a squad riddled by dismissals for cheating in examinations.

Ninety unidentified cadets were expelled yesterday for cribbing and Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, said no names would be announced.

But Senator Harry Byrd of Virginia said General Collins told him and several other senators that most of the Army football team was involved.

Blaik could not be reached for comment. He was at the Academy Thursday but had "disappeared" yesterday when Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Jr., disclosed in Washington that the cadets had broken the sacrosanct honor code of the United States Military Academy.

However, Col. James Leer, head of the Academy's Information Office, said the Army would play football this fall.

That means a schedule highlighted by Southern California in New York, Nov. 3 and the traditional game with Navy in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, Dec. 1.

Dartmouth, Harvard and the Citadel don't appear too formidable at this stage even for a rebuilt Army. Eleven but the remainder of the schedule, in addition to U.S.C. and Navy, includes such gridiron powers as Villanova, Northwestern, Columbia and Pennsylvania.

Winners Named In Swimming Meet

Gloria Leimweber, Charles Sweeney, and Edward Williams were the winners in the July swimming contest held by the Williams Lake Athletic Club at Williams Lake in the Town of Rosendale for the children of the area.

Twelve-year-old Gloria gathered a total of 157 points to win the girls' division with Peggy Osterhout in second place with 150 points. Anita Williams with 142 points in third place; and Dolores Garlick in fourth place with 140 points.

The boys' division ended in a tie with 11-year-old Charles Sweeney and nine-year-old Edward Williams each scoring 123 points. Third place among the boys went to Fred Kuhl with 97 points.

THE SCOREBOARD

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Thanks to rookie Jim McDonald, an ex-Red Sox now working for the last place St. Louis Browns, Boston and Cleveland are only a half game behind the New York Yankees in the American League confusion.

McDonald, who flunked his trial with Boston in spring training, manhandled the Yankees, 10-2, yesterday in the second game of a doubleheader after Vic Raschi notched win No. 16 in New York's 8-4 opening victory.

Maury McDermott, lanky Boston lefty, took full advantage of New York's lapse by driving home four runs while pitching the Red Sox to a 5-2 night triumph over Detroit. And Cleveland kept step in a second-place tie by rallying in the eighth to nip the Philadelphia A's 3-2.

Ed Stewart and Orestes Minoza with three hits each led the rebounding Chicago White Sox to a 7-4 victory at Washington. The result left the go-go Sox 5½ games off the Yankee pace.

Brooklyn held its 10-game lead in the National although the Dodgers lost a 5-4 decision in 14 innings at Cincinnati to iron man Willie Ramsdell. Following the pattern of the 1951 season, the second place New York Giants also fell, 5-4, at St. Louis.

Phillies Win
The Phillies, way back yonder 14½ games out of first place, closed a little ground by edging Pittsburgh, 5-4, for Robin Roberts' 14th victory. Chicago's Paul Minner broke a month-long win drought by shading Boston, 2-1, his first triumph since July 1.

It was a day of few homers—a total of only five—and 10 complete pitching jobs on the nine-game schedule.

If the regular hitters were having an off day, not so for pitcher McDermott of Boston. The lanky lefty smashed the first homer of his major league career with two on in the second inning. Later he added two singles off Dizzy Trout to take care of his own decision. Ted Williams went hitless and Clyde Vollmer, whose grand slam homer gave the lefty a 16-inning victory last Saturday, struck out three times and hit into a double play.

Young McDonald, sold to the Browns for the waiver price after Boston recalled him from the Louisville farm two weeks ago, had plenty of support in his first win. The Brownies ripped into rookie Bob Wiesler, Yankee hot shot lefty making his first start since he graduated from Kansas City, and knocked him out in a seven-run fourth inning.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Tommy Danaher, the Wiltwyck pro, handed the lady golfer a entry blank for the Freeman hole-in-one tournament.

"Who me?", said the young lady. "I wouldn't have a ghost of a chance. With all those people around I don't think I'd get the ball off the tee."

The young lady was exaggerating a bit, to be sure. We note that statistics from the 17 years of past competition in the World-Telly tournament prove it is about the only golf competition on the books in which the average or poor player has a chance against the top-notchers.

The proportion of victors is about the same as the entry from the various degrees of skill. The better players ace more often, naturally, but they still are far outnumbered by the rank and file.

Records of the two Freeman tournaments lean toward the experienced player, but that is just a coincidence. Mrs. Jessie Burnett, James A. Dwyer and Joe Kwasney, past winners, are accomplished performers. On the other hand, Sally Russell, of Saugerties, was hardly out of the novice class when she won last year's tournament at Wiltwyck.

The Freeman hole-in-one tournament has produced a couple of spectacular shots by Joe Kwasney and Jim Dwyer but has never been graced with an ace.

The solution may be at hand next Sunday. Wesley F. "Bo" Gill, golfer of Newburgh, has filed an entry blank. His two aces should convince the average duffer that skill is not an essential factor in the game. The gods have smiled on the irrepressible "Bo" a couple of times, giving courage and hope to thousands of duffers.

Gill would not be eligible under normal circumstances since the tournament is open to only bona fide Ulster county residents. However, we felt the tournament needed a publicity lift and another hole-in-one by "Bo" would accomplish the trick.

He has asked for a 5:30 a. m. shot. Here's a sporting proposition. If Mr. Gill, golfer, shows up at 5:30 a. m., the staff will be there to wait on him in royal splendor. After all, Mr. Gill's second ace removed him far from the humble circle of peasant golfers.

● Flotsam and Jetsam:

Fred Hasbrouck, the rangy, powerful, long-hitting Walden pro, recently put on a driving exhibition at Twaalfskill that matched anything seen there since Ray Billows' appearance several years ago. On the first hole, Hasbrouck, brother of Liberty's famed All-DUSO center, Allie Hasbrouck, drove the No. 1 green, the ball ending three quarters up the spacious carpet. On the par-5 fifth, Hasbrouck powdered his tee shot beyond the drinking fountain and just missed landing squarely on the green on the 598-yard fairway. But Hasbrouck saved the piece de resistance until the 8th hole. There his jet-propelled drive carried to within inches of the trap. It took one short skip and buried itself in the sand. To Benny Brannin, the Newburgh Country Club pro who toured the links with Hasbrouck and the writer, big Fred's gargantuan drives were old stuff, but to Twaalfskillians it was the best show in a long time.

Larry Robinson says the current World-Telly tournament for golfers who have an ace to their credit, started with odds of 10,486 to 1 against the player. These odds were determined by the 64,553 shots taken in 12,911 competitors, with six aces recorded by golfers who were trying to hole out on their tee shot.

Normally, the average player is satisfied in reaching the green on a par-3 hole. The expert plays for the flag. Theoretically, every golfer shoots for an ace on a par-3 hole, just like every bowler starts a game with a 300 in mind. In practice, however, it doesn't work that way and aces, more than often, are the result of sheer luck and a measure of skill. The average ace is the result of a well-hit shot, but once in a while you hear of some weird angle connected with a hole-in-one.

The Freeman hole-in-one tournament next Sunday will attract about 200 entries. Wonder if anybody in the house wants to lay $10,486 to $1 against an ace?

Barnum Holds Shanter Lead

Chicago, Aug. 4 (AP)—Befitting the circus-like atmosphere at Tam O'Shanter, a guy named John Barnum (who doesn't know Bailey) today tried to protect his halfway lead in the $15,000 All-American pro golf tournament.

For the first time in the 11 year history of Promoter George S. May's blue plate special of golf, Barnum became the only rank outsider to maintain a lead in the big-day field through 36 holes. He showed signs of slipping yesterday when his trusty putter that had carved an opening round 64, eight under par, failed and he soared to 74 for 138. But the personable, 220-pound Grand Rapids, Mich., pro of four years standing was surprised to see this figure bear up for the 36-hole lead.

Today, the 39-year-old Barnum was ready to fight off the challenges of Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex.; Lew Worsham, of Oakmont, Pa., the 1947 National Open champion; Ted Kroll, four-time Purple Heart veteran from New Hartford, N. Y.; and Al Besselink, lanky 28-year-old pro from Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Each was bracketed at 139 while four seasoned pros followed at 140. They were Lawson Little, Tommy Bolt of Durham, N. C., Garry Middlecoff and Lloyd Mangrum. Grouped at 141 were such fancy Dans as Jimmy Demaret, Jim Ferrier and Skeel Riegel.

Four-Day Stand With Five Games At the Stadium

Amsterdam Series Closes Tonight

Rained out in Amsterdam last night, the Colonials close out the Rugmaker series with a single game tonight, then head home for the peaceful confines of municipal stadium to launch a four-night stand Sunday against the Rome Colonels.

The invasion of Buck Etchinson's crew will be of more than passing interest to local fans, since Lou Kramberg and Joe Niro, a couple of ex-Colonials, will be in the Colonial lineup.

Municipal stadium should be a welcome tonic to Manager John Sosh's badly-battered forces. A batting slump cost them three one-run ball games in Oneonta, then the pitching failed to hold up in Gloversville. The result was split the fairway and landed on the first level of the ninth fairway. Boice, harassed by a faulty driver, placed his shot under trees below the eighth tee and was forced to pitch short of the last green.

So ended one of the great comebacks and victories in Twaalfskill history.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

Rightlander Sal Arduini of the Rome Colonels had 10 victories to his credit today after shutting out the Gloversville Glovers, 1-0. He has lost seven.

The game at Rome was the only one played in the Canadian-American League last night. Kingston at Amsterdam and Pittsfield at Oneonta games were rained out.

One hit, a fourth-inning single by the Glovers' Lou Kramberg, kept Arduini from the perfect game. He struck out six and walked two.

Al Barkus took the loss, which put the second-spot Glovers a game and a half behind the league-leading Oneonta Red Sox.

Larsen Avers He's No Character

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 4 (AP)—Art Larsen says he doesn't mind people thinking of him as a "character" but he's pretty fed up at being depicted as a trigger-tempered court ogre who eats umpires raw.

Furthermore, he warned today, don't count him out of the National tennis championships later this month at Forest Hills and as a U. S. banner-carrier in the Davis Cup matches against Australia.

"I'm a little over-tennised, I'll admit," the wiry, 26-year-old National singles champion from San Leandro, Calif., said, "but I'm going to rest and get in good shape for the Nationals."

"The man who wins the National will play against Australia—and if I can get my game back in shape I think I can hold my own against Dick Savitt and Tony Trabert, even though both are playing fine tennis."

Van Gonsic Rallies From Six-Hole Deficit to Upset Boice, 1-Up

You can talk about Jersey Joe Walcott's upset of Ezzard Charles. Or Turpin over Ray Robinson. Rocky Marciano over Rex Layne. And that tremendous upheaval of Rube Lenthal over Dr. George Rifenbary at Wiltwyck.

Great upsets, to be sure. But these fellows have to move over and make room for John Van Gonsic, Twaalfskill's veteran all-round sportsman.

If Van Gonsic's electrifying comeback in ousting defending champion Alvin Boice, 1 up, Friday, in the second round of Twaalfskill's championship flight, isn't the most spectacular comeback in local golf history, it will do until something better comes along.

Ten Holes in 36
SIX down with ten holes remaining against a stolid, phlegmatic champion, the old warhorse suddenly caught fire.

In the next ten holes, he blistered the Twaalfskill fairways in an even 36 strokes for a 3.6 average.

lead per hole, while shaving Boice's lead at every hole. He rocketed a 32 in the homeward nine, with three birdies, an eagle and two bogies.

Somewhere between the eighth green and the ninth tee on the first round, Boice, the champion, lost his magic touch. He got in trouble on his drive and needed seven to get in for a 39, while Van Gonsic was down in par figures to shave his deficit to five holes.

Then came the strange, unbelievable reversal of fortunes.

While Boice remained unsteady with his tee shots, Van Gonsic responded with nine of the finest holes in Twaalfskill tournament history.

30-Footer Decides Match
The payoff came on the 17th hole, after Van Gonsic had squared the match on the par-five 16th with a birdie-4. His pitch shot rolled across the green to the south edge, 30 feet from the pin. Boice was short of the green but closer to the pin, so

Van Gonsic had to shoot first. Slowly and surely he stroked a beautiful putt that took off in unerring flight toward the cup, hesitated momentarily at the lip and then dropped in for a birdie-3. That gave him a 1-up edge and he guarded it doggedly with a beautiful chip shot off the edge of the 18th green for a one putt and regulation four.

Van Gonsic had a medal of 38 in the first half of the match. Then he reeled off 4-4-3-2-4-4-3-4-3-2. Boice was three-up at the end of the first four holes, six up after eight before the deluge engulfed him.

'Best of Career'
The challenger who shot what he described as "the best nine holes of my career" parred the 10th with a four. He three-putted the second to halve with a four, as Boice's tee shot landed into the short rough on the left.

Van Gonsic's tee shot landed seven feet from the pin on the Twaalfskill championship ended with Van Gonsic's spectacular putt on the 17th green. The six feet from the pin on No. 4 and canned it for an eagle-two. Then came a birdie on the long par-5 fifth. They halved the short sixth when Boice three-putted.

The match was squared on the seventh (16th) as Van Gonsic hit the green on his spoon shot and was down in two putts. Boice lost a stroke when his second wood landed high in the rough above the green.

Boice's domination of the Twaalfskill championship ended with Van Gonsic's spectacular putt on the 17th green. The fading champion tried desperately to can his chip shot but it faded to the left.

There was still time to square the match and send it into extra holes, but Van Gonsic, driving superbly, split the fairway and landed on the first level of the ninth fairway. Boice, harassed by a faulty driver, placed his shot under trees below the eighth tee and was forced to pitch short of the last green.

So ended one of the great comebacks and victories in Twaalfskill history.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

Tommy Danaher, the Wiltwyck pro, handed the lady golfer a entry blank for the Freeman hole-in-one tournament.

"Who me?" said the young lady. "I wouldn't have a ghost of a chance. With all those people around I don't think I'd get the ball off the tee."

The young lady was exaggerating a bit, to be sure. We note that statistics from the 17 years of past competition in the World-Telly tournament prove it is about the only golf competition on the books in which the average or poor player has a chance against the top-notchers.

The proportion of victors is about the same as the entry from the various degrees of skill. The better players ace more often, naturally, but they still are far outnumbered by the rank and file.

Records of the two Freeman tournaments lean toward the experienced player, but that is just a co-incidence. Mrs. Jessie Burnett, James A. Dwyer and Joe Kwasney, past winners, are accomplished performers. On the other hand, Sally Russell, of Saugerties, was hardly out of the novice class when she won last year's tournament at Wiltwyck.

The Freeman hole-in-one tournament has produced a couple of spectacular shots by Joe Kwasney and Jim Dwyer but has never been graced with an ace.

The solution may be at hand next Sunday. Wesley F. "Bo" Gill, golfer, of Newburgh, has filed an entry blank. His two aces should convince the average duffer that skill is not an essential factor in scoring the dream shot. The gods have smiled on the irrepressible "Bo" a couple of times, giving courage and hope to thousands of duffers.

Gill would not be eligible under normal circumstances for the tournament, but he is only bona fide Ulster county residents. However, we felt the tournament needed a publicity lift and another hole-in-one by "Bo" would accomplish the trick.

He has asked for a 5:30 a. m. shot. Here's a sporting proposition. If Mr. Gill, golfer, shows up at 5:30 a. m., the staff will be there to wait on him in royal splendor. After all, Mr. Gill's second ace removed him far from the humble circle of peasant golfers.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

Fred Hasbrouck, the rangy, powerful, long-hitting Walden pro, recently put on a driving exhibition at Twaalfskill that matched anything seen there since Ray Billows' appearance several years ago. On the first hole, Hasbrouck, brother of Liberty's famed All-DUO shot, Ailie Hasbrouck, drove the No. 1 green, the ball ending three quarters up the spacious carpet. On the par-5 fifth, Hasbrouck powdered his tee shot beyond the drinking fountain and just missed landing squarely on the green on the 588-yard fairway. But Hasbrouck saved the piece de resistance until the 8th hole. There his jet-propelled drive carried to within inches of the trap. It took one short skip and buried itself in the sand. To Benny Brant, the Newburgh Country Club pro who took the hole with Hasbrouck and the writer, big Fred's gargantuan drives were old stuff, but to Twaalfskillians it was the best show in a long time.

Larry Robinson says the current World-Telly tournament for golfers who have an ace to their credit, started with odds of 10,486 to 1 against the player. These odds were determined by the 64,553 shots taken by 12,911 competitors, with six aces recorded by golfers who were trying to hole out on their tee shot.

Normally, the average player is satisfied in reaching the green on a par-3 hole. The expert plays for the flag. Theoretically, every golfer shoots for an ace on a par-3 hole, just like every bowler starts a game with a 300 in mind. In practice, however, it doesn't work that way and aces, more than often, are the result of sheer luck and a measure of skill. The average ace is the result of a well-hit shot, but once in a while you hear of some weird angle connected with a hole-in-one.

The Freeman hole-in-one tournament next Sunday will attract about 200 entries. Wonder if anybody in the house wants to lay $10,486 to $1 against an ace?

Barnum Holds Shanter Lead

Chicago, Aug. 4 (AP)—Beffitting the circus-like atmosphere at Tam O'Shanter, a guy named John Barnum (who doesn't know Bailey) today tried to protect his halfway lead in the $15,000 All-American pro golf tournament.

For the first time in the 11 year history of Promoter George S. May's blue plate special of golf, Barnum became the only rank outsider to maintain a lead in the big-name field through 36 holes.

He showed signs of slipping yesterday when his trusty putter that had carved an opening round 64, eight under par, failed and he soared to 74 for 138. But the personable, 220-pound Grand Rapids, Mich., pro of four years standing was surprised to see this figure bear up for the 36-hole lead.

Today, the 39-year-old Barnum was ready to fight off the challenges of Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex.; Lew Worsham, of Oakmont, Pa., the 1947 National Open champion; Ted Kroll, four-time Purple Heart veteran from New Hartford, N. Y.; and Al Bessellink, lanky 28-year-old pro from Mt. Clemens, Mich.

Each was bracketed at 139 while four seasoned pros followed at 140. They were Lawson Little, Tommy Bolt of Durham, N. C.; Gary Middlecoff and Lloyd Mangrum, Grouped at 141 were such fan favorites as Jimmy Demaret, Jim Ferrier and Jack Riegel.

Amsterdam Series Closes Tonight

Rained out in Amsterdam last night, the Colonials close out the Rugmaker series with a single game tonight, then head home for the peaceful confines of municipal stadium to launch a four-night stand Sunday against the Rome Colonials.

The invasion of Buck Etchinson's crew will be of more than passing interest to local fans, since Lou Kramberg and Joe Niro, a couple of ex-Colonials, will be in the Colonial lineup.

Council for Negro Actor Backs Show

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—The Amos 'n' Andy television show—considered objectionable by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People—has been endorsed by the coordinating Council for Negro Performers.

The council was formed by the Negro Actors Guild a week ago to campaign against caricatures of Negroes in theatrical presentations and to promote employment of colored entertainers and performers.

Amos 'n' Andy on television, with an all-Negro cast, drew NAACP objections for allegedly presenting the performers in an unfavorable light.

But yesterday the council commended the Columbia Broadcasting System for its stand on the program. A council resolution acknowledged "the expressed willingness of CBS to increase Negro employment in this new medium."

Two Teen Agers Held on 2 Charges

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—Two teen-aged Brooklyn girls and a Queens man were under arrest today on assault and robbery charges in connection with a February 16 Queens liquor store holdup.

Police identified them as Hans Elies, 20; Joan MacArthur, 19; and Mrs. Joan Carroll Espinoza, 19.

The trio was arrested on information given to Connecticut police by Robert Beers, 21, of Queens, who is under arrest in Hartford, Conn., after an alleged robbery attempt last Saturday in Avon, Conn.

Police said Beers admitted taking part in the February holdup, in which the liquor store proprietor, Willy Grabe, 41, was slugged and robbed of $120.

Then he implicated the other three.

Police said Miss MacArthur did not take part in the holdup but took $30 of the stolen money. She was held as "acting in concert" charges.

Grandmother in Jail On Embezzlement Charge

Los Angeles, Aug. 4 (AP)—Mrs. Bernice Emerick, a 49-year-old Dayton, Ohio, grandmother, is in jail on embezzlement charges and the Manhattan Beach, Calif., councilman she married 11 days ago, Dell Lyman, 34, says he's through with her.

The couple wed after a whirlwind romance in Las Vegas, Nev., and were to leave today for a Honolulu honeymoon, but FBI agents arrested Mrs. Emerick yesterday when she called for her luggage at the Union Station here.

Authorities said Mrs. Emerick, secretary-treasurer of the Wright Field Credit Union at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, left Dayton July 3, and that a preliminary audit indicated that more than $50,000 is missing. A P. Ostholtz of the Cincinnati FBI office, said she had access to the Union's deposits of $5,000,000.

Richard Hood, in charge of the Los Angeles FBI office, said Mrs. Emerick admitted spending at least $1,600 on her trip west. Arless E. Emerick, a Dayton barber, said last night he is the woman's second husband and is still married to her. He said they have no children but that she has three grandchildren by her first marriage. He expressed surprise at her Nevada marriage and said he had not contemplated a divorce.

Withdraws Libel Suit Against Medical Group

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—Ted O. Thackrey, editor and publisher of the New York Compass, said today he had withdrawn a libel suit against the New York State Medical Society because it has apologized for linking his newspaper with the Communist organ, the Daily Worker.

Thackrey had asked $1,000,000 damages last Feb. 9 in the suit filed against the medical society and the editor of the New York State Journal of Medicine, the society's official publication.

In the Sunday Compass printed today, Thackrey said that he was "particularly gratified by the prompt action of the Journal's editor and the society to correct the misstatements."

Compass objections involved a Christmas, 1950, editorial in the Journal.

Coleman Shows at Spring Lake Park

Monday evening at 7 o'clock Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Supervisor James Martin and Alderman Robert C. Cullum of the Twelfth Ward, Supervisor Horace Boice, Justices of the Peace Percy Bush and Harold Macholdt and Councilmen John Acker and Clarence Rappleyea of the town of Ulster will participate in the ceremonies at Spring Lake when the Coleman Brothers Shows will open at the new Spring Lake Park. The ceremonies of cutting a ribbon to dedicate the park will take place at that time. The Coleman shows, under the auspices of Excelsior Hose Company, will be the first shows to play at the park since Robert Pardee, owner, has completed improvements there.

The Coleman Shows will move to the site Sunday with 10 shows, 12 rides and concessions and remain there for a week. The park borders on Spring Lake and a feature of the show will be the Sol Solomon outdoor water show which will feature a nightly high dive act. Solomon, who appeared in the diving acts in the picture "Queen for a Day" dives 120 feet into a shallow tank. Wednesday and Saturday afternoons there will be children's matinee show.

Postpone Conference

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—The U. S., Britain, France and Canada have agreed to put off temporarily their effort to agree on a standard caliber of rifle ammunition for all North Atlantic Treaty (NATO) countries. However, they announced at the close of a four-power conference yesterday that another attempt will be made "as early as practicable."

Senator Challenges Truman on Boyle

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—Senator Byrd (D.-Va.) challenged President Truman today to defend or fire William M. Boyle, Jr., as chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Byrd, who has demanded to know if Boyle "peddled influence" in connection with a $565,000 RFC loan, said he had urged colleagues to delay any investigation until Mr. Truman reports what he found by looking into the matter.

The President told a news conference Thursday he is trying to find out the facts as he does in every case. Byrd's move was obviously an effort to force the President's hand.

"The President has not defended Boyle in this case, as he usually does when any of his supporters are accused of anything," Byrd told reporters. "If he can't defend Boyle, he ought to see that he is fired."

Only the Democratic National Committee could fire Boyle or receive his resignation, but the President obviously has tremendous influence on the committee. In fact, he was credited with selecting Boyle as its national chairman.

Cool Wave Moves In From the West

(By The Associated Press) It was blanket weather in the north central states as temperatures dipped to near freezing in some areas today.

The mercury hit a cool 37 at Grand Marais, Mich., and 39 at Pellston, Mich. Readings dropped as much as 20 degrees below normal over some parts of Wisconsin and Michigan early today as the cool air spread over midwest areas.

The cool air moved into the New England and Middle Atlantic States. But it was still hot and humid in the southern states and most of the far west.

Movie 'Tough Guy' Gets 5 Days in Jail

Los Angeles, Aug. 4 (AP)—Movie "tough guy" Lawrence Tierney is serving a five-day jail term for contempt of court.

Municipal Judge Joseph Call ordered the 35-year-old actor jailed yesterday when he appeared in court several hours late for trial on a battery charge. A bench warrant had been issued for his arrest.

Tierney explained that his automobile battery went dead and that he got a traffic citation while en route to court, but the court said the actor had been treating the case as a joke "and you're not going to be tried when you feel good and ready; you're going to be tried on the date set by the court."

Judge call re-set the case for Aug. 13 and Tierney must post $2,500 bond when his five-day term is up.

Tierney is accused of striking John Naylor, 25, when the latter investigated noises near his home last June 21. Tierney pleaded innocent and asked for a jury trial.

No Dismissal

Los Angeles, Aug. 4 (AP)—An effort by defense attorneys has failed to win dismissal of screen writer Emmet Lavery's damage suit against Mrs. Lela Rogers, mother of actress Ginger Rogers, and others. Superior Judge Arnold Praeger denied a dismissal motion yesterday, holding that it is up to the jury to decide whether a 1947 radio debate on communism in Hollywood depreciated the value of Lavery's play, "A Gentleman From Athens."

Police said Miss MacArthur did not take part in the holdup but took $30 of the stolen money. She was held as "acting in concert" charges.

Grandmother in Jail On Embezzlement Charge

Los Angeles, Aug. 4 (AP)—Mrs. Bernice Emerick, a 49-year-old Dayton, Ohio, grandmother, is in jail on embezzlement charges and the Manhattan Beach, Calif., councilman she married 11 days ago, Dell Lyman, 34, says he's through with her.

The couple wed after a whirlwind romance in Las Vegas, Nev., and were to leave today for a Honolulu honeymoon, but FBI agents arrested Mrs. Emerick yesterday when she called for her luggage at the Union Station here.

Authorities said Mrs. Emerick, secretary-treasurer of the Wright Patterson Air Force Base, left Dayton July 3, and that a preliminary audit indicated that more than $50,000 is missing. A. P. Ostholhoff of the Cincinnati FBI office, said she had access to the Union's deposits of $5,000,000.

Richard Hood, in charge of the Los Angeles FBI office, said Mrs. Emerick admitted spending at least $1,600 on her trip west.

Arless E. Emerick, a Dayton barber, said last night he is the woman's second husband and is still married to her. He said they have no children but that she has three grandchildren by her first marriage. He expressed surprise at her Nevada marriage and said he had not contemplated a divorce.

Withdraws Libel Suit Against Medical Group

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—Ted O. Thackrey, editor and publisher of the New York Compass, said today he had withdrawn a libel suit against the New York State Medical Society because it has apologized for linking his newspaper with the Communist organ, the Daily Worker.

Thackrey had asked $1,000,000 damages last Feb. 9 in the suit, filed against the medical society and the editor of the New York State Journal of Medicine, the society's official publication.

In the Sunday Compass printed today, Thackrey said that he was "particularly gratified by the prompt action of the Journal's editor and the society to correct the misstatements."

Compass objections involved a Christmas, 1950, editorial in the Journal.

Coleman Shows at Spring Lake Park

Monday evening at 7 o'clock Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Supervisor James Martin and Alderman Robert C. Cullum of the Twelfth Ward, Supervisor Horace Boice, Justices of the Peace Percy Bush and Harold Macholdt and Councilmen John Acker and Clarence Rappleyea of the town of Ulster will participate in the ceremonies at Spring Lake when the Coleman Brothers Shows will open at the new Spring Lake Park.

The ceremonies of cutting a ribbon to dedicate the park will take place at that time. The Coleman shows, under the auspices of Excelsior Hose Company, will be the first shows to play at the park since Robert Pardee, owner, has completed improvements there.

The Coleman Shows will move to the site Sunday with 10 shows, 12 rides and concessions and remain there for a week. The park borders on Spring Lake and a feature of the show will be the Sol Solomon outdoor water show which will feature a nightly high dive act. Solomon, who appeared in the diving acts in the picture "Queen for a Day" dives 120 feet into a shallow tank. Wednesday and Saturday afternoons there will be children's matinee show.

Postpone Conference Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—The U. S., Britain, France and Canada have agreed to put off temporarily their effort to agree on a standard caliber of rifle ammunition for all North Atlantic Treaty (NATO) countries. However, they announced at the close of a four-power conference yesterday that another attempt will be made "as early as practicable."

Senator Challenges Truman on Boyle

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—Senator Byrd (D-Va.) challenged President Truman today to defend or fire William M. Boyle, Jr., as chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

Byrd, who has demanded to know if Boyle "peddled influence" in connection with a $565,000 RFC loan, said he had urged colleagues to delay any investigation until Mr. Truman reports what he found by looking into the matter.

The President told a news conference Thursday he is trying to find out the facts as he does in every case. Byrd's move was obviously an effort to force the President's hand.

"The President has not defended Boyle in this case, as he usually does when any of his supporters are accused of anything," Byrd told reporters. "If he can't defend Boyle, he ought to see that he is fired."

Only the Democratic National Committee could fire Boyle or receive his resignation, but the President obviously has tremendous influence on the committee. In fact, he was credited with selecting Boyle as its national chairman.

Cool Wave Moves In From the West

(By The Associated Press) It was blanket weather in the north central states as temperatures dipped to near freezing in some areas today.

The mercury hit a cool 37 at Grand Marais, Mich., and 39 at Pellston, Mich. Readings dropped as much as 20 degrees below normal over some parts of Wisconsin and Michigan early today as the cool air spread over midwest areas.

The cool air moved into the New England and Middle Atlantic States. But it was still hot and humid in the southern states and most of the far west.

and Rocky Mountain States after heavy downfalls in some areas yesterday. Showers also were reported in the North Atlantic coastal areas and parts of the Carolinas.

Denver reported 3.43 inches of rain in a 24-hour period, two inches over the normal rainfall for August. The heavy rains which hit northern Colorado caused road blocks, interrupted telephone and electrical service and highway travel.

Thirty cars were stalled 35 miles northwest of Fort Collins as water poured over U. S. Highway 287. Dirt and rocks spilled over U. S. 34 in Big Thompson Canyon slide between Fort Collins and Estes Park and rising water in Big Thompson river flowed over many roads.

Movie 'Tough Guy' Gets 5 Days in Jail

Los Angeles, Aug. 4 (AP)—Movie "tough guy" Lawrence Tierney is serving a five-day jail term for contempt of court.

Municipal Judge Joseph Call ordered the 35-year-old actor jailed yesterday when he appeared in court several hours late for trial on a battery charge. A bench warrant had been issued for his arrest.

Tierney explained that his automobile battery went dead and that he got a traffic citation while en route to court, but the court said the actor had been treating the case as a joke "and you're not going to be tried when you feel good and ready; you're going to be tried on the date set by the court."

Judge call re-set the case for Aug. 13 and Tierney must post $2,500 bond when his five-day term is up.

Tierney is accused of striking John Naylor, 25, when the latter investigated noises near his home last June 21. Tierney pleaded innocent and asked for a jury trial.

No Dismissal Los Angeles, Aug. 4 (AP)—An effort by defense attorneys has failed to win dismissal of screen writer Emmet Lavery's damage suit against Mrs. Lela Rogers, mother of actress Ginger Rogers, and others. Superior Judge Arnold Praeger denied a dismissal motion yesterday, holding that it is up to the jury to decide whether a 1947 radio debate on communism in Hollywood depreciated the value of Lavery's play, "A Gentleman From Athens."

Hit With Green Apple

Otto Thoden, 47, of Ulster Park, was injured Friday night while at work at Island Dock when he was struck by a green apple which was thrown by an unknown boy on the Rondout creek bridge, according to a report made to police headquarters. The injury was not serious, the report said. Patrolmen George Dougherty and Meyer Levy were dispatched to the bridge but reported they could find no one there at the time.

Out and In Again

Clinton Gardner, 39, of 27 O'Neil street, who was released from the Ulster county jail at 8 a. m. Friday after serving a 90-day term, was arrested 17 hours later by police on a public intoxication charge. Arraigned before Special City Judge Harry Gold this morning, Gardner was fined $10 and given an additional 30-day sentence, the execution of which was suspended provided he leave this city before noon today.

Double Killing Shocks

Downtown Passers-by Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 4 (AP)—A double shotgun killing before shocked downtown passers-by was called murder and suicide by Coroner M. B. Kirkpatrick.

Kirkpatrick said Raymond Napoleon Marlar, about 30, killed his 26-year-old estranged wife, Lillian, and then shot himself to death yesterday. They left three small children.

Detective C. E. Jones said the husband drove up to a car in which Mrs. Marlar was sitting, thrust a shotgun through a window, and shot her in the side.

Her last words were: "I wouldn't shoot any more if I were you."

Marlar stepped back, the detective related, reloaded the single barrel 12 gauge weapon, and shot himself in the chest.

$500,000 Fire Loss

In Peabody, Mass.

Peabody, Mass., Aug. 4 (AP)—Flames which flashed crisscross along a wide factory street today swept seven buildings with a loss estimated unofficially at more than $500,000.

No injuries were reported as fire companies from seven communities aided in battling the blaze in this leather tanning city of 22,000 which is 15 miles north of Boston.

Deputy Fire Chief Timothy Roche said the flames started in the one-story wooden warehouse of the M. V. Ellis Grain Company and two small explosions spread the blaze.

Advice for Railroaders

Says U. S. Will Help

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—The United States will help meet Yugoslavia's military needs, according to the Yugoslav Ambassador Vladimir Popovic. Popovic said he received this assurance yesterday during a call on Secretary of State Acheson. The ambassador returned recently from a three weeks' trip to his homeland where, he said, he talked with Marshal Tito and other top government leaders.

He was found yesterday at a

Shepherd camp. Nearby were 11 sticks of dynamite with which relatives said Carman told them he "intended to blow himself up."

He said he lost his .38 calibre pistol in a fall down a steep decline.

Carman declined to tell his relatives, including his wife of Burbank, Calif., specifically why he left the notes, found last Tuesday by his brother, and made the threats.

"Nobody wants me any more," he told his brother. "Everyone would be better off if I stayed away."

Peron Turns Fire

On Another Paper

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Aug. 4 (AP)—The government radio, Voice of President Juan D. Peron, trained its fire today on La Nacion only great independent newspaper left in Argentina since the closing of La Prensa.

The radio blasted La Nacion for failing to join the pro-government press in denouncing Aug. 1 bombings on Argentine railways as alien-inspired.

La Nacion reported the explosions, and also reported developments in the railway strike which has disrupted long distance train service for the past four days. It made no editorial comment.

The pro-government press ignored the strike which has forced the government to draft railway workers throughout the country. These papers concentrated on the bombings which they said were acts of sabotage inspired by alien forces and anti-Peron politicians.

A campaign directed against La Prensa for its alleged silence on a railway strike last January preceded the government's closing of that newspaper.

The official attack on La Nacion today came as hundreds of striking engineers and firemen refused to obey a government order directing them to return to work.

Strike leaders said they were fighting for the right to elect their own officers. They accused the government of putting its own hand-picked candidates in office.

Prospector Silent

On Shooting Threat

Durango, Colo., Aug. 4 (AP)—Mildred Carman was out of his mountain hideaway today but the 56-year old prospector wasn't saying much about why he threatened to shoot anyone who came after him.

The former Oregonian was at the home here of his brother, Norman—the same home in which he left the notes telling him he planned to take to the hills and was taking a gun to use on anyone following him.

He was found yesterday at a Shepherd camp. Nearby were 11 sticks of dynamite with which relatives said Carman told them he "intended to blow himself up."

He said he lost his .38 calibre pistol in a fall down a steep decline. Carman declined to tell his relatives, including his wife of Burbank, Calif., specifically why he left the notes, found last Tuesday by his brother, and made the threats.

Four Aliens Still

Reported Missing

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—Four aliens still were missing today in the government's crackdown on the Civil Rights Congress bail fund, bondsman for Communists and alleged subversives.

Another 35 aliens, whose CRC bail was voided Thursday, were accounted for but not all had surrendered.

Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan outlawed the CRC as a bondsman last month after four convicted Communist party leaders jumped $80,000 in Congress-posted bail.

The court action followed the refusal of four bail fund trustees to name contributors to the fugitive Reds' bond.

Thursday's Justice Department action, revoking $110,000 as CRC bail started a roundup of the 39 aliens, all of whom face deportation on charges of being members of the Communist party or having Red connections.

While ruling out bond from CRC sources, the action had not affected the rate of bail and five of the aliens regained their freedom yesterday after substituting "unaffiliated" non-CRC bail.

The five were among the 15 who surrendered Thursday in New York, Philadelphia and Boston. Eleven more gave themselves up yesterday here and in Detroit.

Of the remainder, five have left the country or are preparing to leave, all with government approval; three are arranging to surrender in Detroit; one was ill, and four were missing.

The Civil Rights Congress is on the U. S. Attorney General's list of Red fronts.

Treaty Signed

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—The United States and Greece have signed a treaty of friendship, commerce and navigation. The pact, signed yesterday in Athens, is subject to ratification by both governments before it can become effective.

Hit With Green Apple

Otto Thoden, 47, of Ulster Park, was injured Friday night while at work at Island Dock when he was struck by a green apple which was thrown by an unknown boy on the Rondout creek bridge, according to a report made to police headquarters. The injury was not serious, the report said. Patrolmen George Dougherty and Meyer Levy were dispatched to the bridge but reported they could find no one there at the time.

Out and In Again

Clinton Gardner, 39, of 27 O'Neil street, who was released from the Ulster county jail at 8 a. m. Friday after serving a 90-day term, was arrested 17 hours later by police on a public intoxication charge. Arraigned before Special City Judge Harry Goss this morning, Gardner was fined $10 and given an additional 30-day sentence, the execution of which was suspended provided he leave this city before noon today.

Bush Station Theft

Robert Bush, operator of a gasoline station at the intersection of Washington and Hurley avenues, reported to police this morning that someone entered the station during the night and stole approximately $25 in change. Detective Clarence Brophy is conducting an investigation.

Double Killing Shocks Downtown Passers-by

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 4 (AP)—A double shotgun killing before shocked downtown passers-by was called murder and suicide by Coroner M. B. Kirkpatrick.

Kirkpatrick said Raymond Napoleon Marlar, about 30, killed his 26-year-old estranged wife, Lillian, and then shot himself to death yesterday. They left three small children.

Detective C. E. Jones said the husband drove up to a car in which Mrs. Marlar was sitting, thrust a shotgun through a window, and shot her in the side.

Her last words were: "I wouldn't shoot any more if I were you."

Marlar stepped back, the detective related, reloaded the single barrel .12 gauge weapon, and shot himself in the chest.

$500,000 Fire Loss In Peabody, Mass.

Peabody, Mass., Aug. 4 (AP)—Flames which flashed crisscross along a wide factory street today swept seven buildings with a loss estimated unofficially at more than $500,000.

No injuries were reported as fire companies from seven communities aided in battling the blaze in this leather tanning city of 22,000 which is 15 miles north of Boston.

Deputy Fire Chief Timothy Roche said the flames started in the one-story wooden warehouse of the M. V. Ellis Grain Company and two small explosions spread the blaze.

Peron Turns Fire On Another Paper

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Aug. 4 (AP)—The government radio, Voice of President Juan D. Peron, trained its fire today on La Nacion, only great independent newspaper left in Argentina since the closing of La Prensa.

The radio blasted La Nacion for failing to join the pro-government press in denouncing Aug. 1 bombings on Argentine railways as alien-inspired.

La Nacion reported the explosions, and also reported developments in the railway strike which has disrupted long distance train service for the past four days. It made no editorial comment.

The pro-government press ignored the strike which has forced the government to draft railway workers throughout the country. These papers concentrated on the bombings which they said were acts of sabotage inspired by alien forces and anti-Peron politicians.

A campaign directed against La Prensa for its alleged silence on a railway strike last January preceded the government's closing of that newspaper.

Today came as hundreds of striking engineers and firemen refused to obey a government order directing them to return to work. Strike leaders said they were fighting for the right to elect their own officers. They accused the government of putting its own hand-picked candidates in office.

Prospector Silent On Shooting Threat

Durango, Colo., Aug. 4 (AP)—Mildred Carman was out of his mountain hideaway today but the 56-year old prospector wasn't saying much about why he threatened to shoot anyone who came after him.

The former Oregonian was at the home here of his brother, Norman, the same home in which he left notes telling how he planned to take to the hills and was taking a gun to use on anyone following him.

He was found yesterday at a Shepherds' camp. Nearby were 11 sticks of dynamite which relatives said Carman told them he "intended to blow himself up."

He said he lost his .38 calibre pistol in a fall down a steep decline. Carman declined to tell his relatives, including his wife of Burbank, Calif., specifically why he left the notes, found last Tuesday by his brother, and made the threats.

"Nobody wants me any more," he told his brother. "Everyone would be better off if I stayed away."

Four Aliens Still Reported Missing

New York, Aug. 4 (AP)—Four aliens still were missing today in the government's crackdown on the Civil Rights Congress bail fund, bondsmen for Communists and alleged subversives.

Another 35 aliens, whose CRC bail was voided Thursday, were accounted for but not all had surrendered.

Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan outlawed the CRC as a bondsmen last month after four convicted Communist party leaders jumped $80,000 in Congress-posted bail. The court action followed the refusal of four bail fund trustees to name contributors to the fugitive Reds' bond.

Thursday's Justice Department action revoking $110,000 as CRC bail started a roundup of the 39 aliens, all of whom face deportation on charges of being members of the Communist party or having Red connections.

While ruling out bond from CRC sources, the action had not affected the rate of bail and five of the aliens regained their freedom yesterday after substituting "untainted" non-CRC bail.

The five were among the 15 who surrendered Thursday in New York, Philadelphia and Boston. Eleven more gave themselves up yesterday here and in Detroit. Of the remainder, five have left

Treaty Signed

Washington, Aug. 4 (AP)—The United States and Greece have signed a treaty of friendship, commerce and navigation. The pact, signed yesterday in Athens, is subject to ratification by both governments before it can become effective.
